200 BOYS IN CAMP AS PERIOD CLOSES

Camp John A Owens of Harding Area Scene of Program

A gala time for 200 scouts and scoutmasters of the Harding Area of Boy Scouts marked the close of the first period for Camp John A Owens Saturday

Approximately 80 Marion scouts concluded their vacations at camp yesterday, while today 50 more were preparing to open the second period Tuesday

Thirty four scouts received awards in the court of honor staged at the camp Saturday The awards consisted of tenderfoot second class first class and merit badges The Seminole lodge, one of the seven at the camp was high in honors for camp activities setting a new high record for which later troops may aspire Hayes Newby Troop No 5 of Marion, took honors in the fire by friction contest by setting a new mark of 2½ seconds

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon scouts from Marion Carlington Nevada LaRue Prospect and Marengo arrived at the camp for a field meet which was won by Troop No 2 of Marion by a margin of one point Nearly 150 scouts took a dip in the swimming pool at three o'clock under the direction of camp instructors At 5 o'clock supper was served

Following the formal retreat and color ceremonies 10 troops spent more than an hour on the ball diamonds A picked team of scouts then matched the scoutmasters in a game holding the older team runless until the fifth inning when four runs were chalked up The scouts scored one run

The campfire was lighted by Karl Kline of Bucyrus by flint and steel The court of honor presided over by Scoutmaster Wilbur Symes of Marion concluded the program

Marion County Is Well Provided With Game Refuges, Game Protector Says

Marion county is well provided with game refuges in the opinion of O. H. Neimeyer game warden for the county who reveals that 1 758 acres of land have been leased by the state for that purpose

Each county is supposed to have about 1 000 acres of refuge land Mr Neimeyer said but as some counties have none some other counties have more than 1 000 acres The refuges are leased by the state to provide a refuge for all wild birds and animals and may be protected against fishing

The total acreage of refuges in Marion county is comprised of two tracts on in Pleasant twp and another in Big Island twp The largest single lessor to the state for this purpose is the Enoch Finch estate in Big Island twp from which 800 acres have been protected The remaining tracts lie in Pleasant twp made up of the farms of Charles Lee Almendinger Samuel J Hopkins Leonard R Hopkins Orville Barnhart, John Gorenflo Katherine Court John Dunbar, Robert C M Lewis N J Barnhart. The farms are so connected that they form a single tract of several hundred acres

These lands have been leased for a period of 10 years Mr Neimeyer told The refuge idea was inaugurated in this county in 1922 when several farms were leased for two year periods The next lease was made for five years and the last ones written for 10 Practically all of the land now protected was included in the last five year lease there being no new territory recently acquired

Without a doubt there are more ring necked pheasants in Marion county than any other county in the state Mr Neimeyer indicated The birds seem to realize where the refuges are located as they will fly for miles to get on protected land when shooting begins during hunting seasons

Among the bird and animals receiving protection here by the creation of these refuges are quail, prairie chickens pheasants Hungarian partridge ring necked pheasants and rabbit For hunting on a game refuge a violator may be fined not less than $25 nor more than $200 but is liable to a fine of the same amount for each bird or animal he may have at the time of his arrest Thus if a hunter was caught with three pheasants, he would be subject to fines of not less than $75 nor more than $600 each bird and the fact that he was hunting on the refuge constituting an offense.

Hungarian partridge have recently been released in the county to increase the game here More birds are expected here from a shipment from the state July 22

Wonderful Prescription Works Miracle in Relief of Indigestion and Chronic Disorders of Stomach.

ALBERT COIF
923-Camden Ave., Columbus, O.

"No words can describe the miseries that I suffered for over seven years from chronic indigestion and constipation, and from sick headaches, biliousness and gas on the stomach I tried one medicine after another, doctor after doctor The best I could get was only temporary relief and not even that after a while I felt sluggish and miserable all the time A friend induced me to try Dr. Parkers' Treatment. Wonder of wonders! Where all others failed, Dr. Parker's produced almost instant relief Before I had taken half a can my stomach and bowels started to act properly The poisons were driven from my body and after taking only three cans my aches and pains vanished to return no more I give all credit and praise to Dr Parker's Treatment for being able to enjoy life once more No family should be without a can of it"

WILL SEARCH BOAT PARTIES FOR BOOZE

Toledo's Younger Set To Be Under Supervision, Official Says

TOLEDO Jul, 15— Members of Toledo's younger set going for the moonlight rides on the steamer Greyhound across the broad expanses of Lake Erie will be forced to submit to a search for liquor before they are allowed to walk aboard according to announcement which had been made here today by H E Stalker superintendent of the Red Star Navigation Co which owns the boat

Stalker declared his action was forced by a police raid last week in which eight persons were arrested and charged with having quantities of liquor concealed about their persons

Three of these arrested at that time were women Stalker said According to prohibition agents one of the women had eight pint bottles concealed beneath her dress

Police are of the opinion that bootleggers found a thriving trade among the young persons who are wont to cruise over the lake aboard the Greyhound

Most of the passengers of the Greyhound are young couples Stalker declared and he will be wished to protect them from buying from bootleggers

Women chaperones will be on hand to watch the young lady passengers, Stalker stated

Bulldog Sleeps Peacefully as Burglar Works

COLUMBUS July 15—Such things as a mere $1000 platinum bracelet mean nothing to the life of a bulldog

While the dog of Mr and Mrs Mac Maniman dozed contentedly in a corner of their bedroom early yesterday morning a burglar entered the room through a window He escaped with the $1000 platinum bracelet and a $1 bill

As he left the burglar threw the empty purse which had contained the money in the hallway The noise awakened Mr Mac Maniman who called police

No trace of the burglar was found

YOU'LL LIKE TRADING AT SCHAFFNER'S

To couples wanting a home—

Every married man will be a better man if he has a HOME, instead of a furnished room, to go to after a day's work.

Every married woman is entitled to a little home of her own. Sooner or later she will feel that she is not getting a square deal if she is deprived of the pleasures that a home provide.

There is little responsibility when you furnish a home You pay a small amount down and your furniture is delivered. Then you pay just what you can afford to pay each week, every two weeks, or once a month—as you prefer.

If you do this you are paying for your own furniture instead of paying your landlord a profit on HIS furniture In a short time you will have it all paid for.

Feel under no obligation when you come to the store to talk it over.

They say to contractors, "We are going to protect you, and you are going to pay us two per cent of your gross receipts, with a salary for our head racketeer."

Some contractors could not see the point, and buildings under construction, dealing with them, were burned.

Contractors doing work on a close basis, leaving no margin for the racket, were warned, "It will be healthy for you to break that contract."

They testify that they took the hint. It is a complicated business world.

TUROFFS TO REOPEN TUESDAY MORNING

Restaurant Redecorated, New Equipment Added; Will Have Dietician

Turoff's restaurant, on South Main st., will reopen at 11 o'clock Tuesday. The restaurant has been closed since last Thursday for extensive repairs and remodeling

According to James G. Turoff, one of the proprietors, the several changes in the mode of operation will be instituted with the opening Tuesday. In the future only women cooks will be employed.

Another innovation will be the employment of a dietician. At present four graduates of home economics schools are being considered for the position. The addition of many new recipes to the culinary department of the restaurant will result in numerous new dishes being introduced on the daily menus, it was stated today.

The restaurant, including the dining room and kitchen, has been completely redecorated and equipped. Jade green with trimmings of black and Chinese red form the color scheme of the dining room New chairback seats replace the former stools at the counter. The seats are also finished in green with upholstering in red and black.

A complete counter service will be one of the features of the restaurant when reopened. New coffee urns have been installed and electric refrigeration will replace ice.

With the exception of steam tables the kitchen has been completely re-equipped. Electric refrigeration has also been installed. Another addition to the kitchen will be a pastry department with an experienced baker in charge. The kitchen space has been practically doubled. A new range and a broiler for steaks and chops are other additions to the equipment.

Family Reunions

Hinklin

Carl McGuire, Irey ave., was elected president of the Henry, Mary Hinklin family reunion, at the seventh annual meeting, held yesterday at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Burdge, west of Marseilles. Ralph Hinklin, East Church st., was elected vice president and Marian Stonebraker, of Huntington, Ind., was elected secretary-treasurer. Business of the organization was taken care of at the close of the election.

A picnic dinner was served cafeteria style at noon. The afternoon was spent in horseshoe pitching, ball, croquet and horseback riding Later in the afternoon a program of recitations, vocal solos, piano solos and duets, chalk drawing and dancing was given. Mr. Burdge gave an entertaining acrobatic clowning act.

Watermelon and homemade ice cream were served as refreshments after the program.

Seminary Student Will Hold Church Services

H J Zuren, student of Eden Seminary at St. Louis, Mo., was in charge of services at Salem Evangelical church Sunday morning After the close of the services, for which there was a large attendance, a short congregational meeting was held.

Arrangements were made to have Mr. Zuren take charge of the services until the middle of September when the Rev Paul Bourquin, of Elyria, will take over the pastorate.

Man in Jail Asks Help Against Wife

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—A man, although lodged in a county jail of Florida, recently appealed to Attorney General Davis to protect him from the molestations of his wife.

The attorney general passed the request to the county in which the man was incarcerated with the following opinion:

"There is no law which gives a man's wife the right to molest him while he is enjoying himself in peace in the county jail."

German Man Works as Maid in New York

BERLIN—Many a New York family will be surprised to learn that the excellent maid which it had at some time during the last four years was really a young man who has just returned to his native Frankfurt with $5,000 in his pocket.

The young man whose name is not revealed found on arrival in New York four years ago that it was a hard job to find a job as a man. But he also learned of the great shortage of household help. So he changed to woman's clothes and soon had good positions in fashionable households as "maid" drawing between $80 and $120 a month plus room and board.

He returns to Frankfurt as a man of means and is expected to find imitators.

ISOLATED ISLE HOLDS GRAVE OF AVIATOR

Heroic Pole Killed in Attempted Cross Sea Flight, Buried in Azores

machine were soon consumed by fire.

Idzikowski, piloting the plane, was strapped to his seat. Otherwise he might have been thrown clear of the burning plane and possibly escaped with injuries.

Customs guards rushed to the assistance of the men. They found Kubala unconscious. Under the debris they discovered the mutilated remains of Idzikowski. He had been killed almost instantly, it was believed.

Spectators Slightly Hurt

Spectators who had been watching the downward swoop of the plane, rushed forward when they heard the explosion. Some of them were injured by flying fragments of the gasoline tank. None was seriously hurt, however.

Kubala's most serious wounds were in the head, but his body and limbs were badly bruised.

Kubala, unconscious, was rushed to the nearest hospital. After an examination a doctor said his injuries were serious but he hoped for recovery.

It was decided to bury Idzikowski at once at the spot where he was killed So far as known the Polish authorities will allow his body to remain there. It was a simple funeral service for a man whose name was flashed over the entire world by radio when he and his companion hopped off for America.

Only a little more than 24 hours after Europe and America were thrilled by the news the Marshal Pilsudski and the French Question Mark had taken off at Le Bourget in the first transatlantic air race in history, the population of the obscure little island of Graciosa were standing at an open grave listening to an aged priest intone the burial service. The last rites were conducted with military honors

Hold Burial Rites

Major Idzikowski's body, removed from the battered wreckage of the plane which had proved his death trap, were buried with simple honors on Graciosa, one of the smallest islands in the Azores group. Mangled and torn by the impact of the crash and the explosion of gasoline which immediately followed it, the famous airman's body was placed in a casket less than 24 hours after the accident had occurred and was lowered into its grave.

One day the adventurous flier was speeding over the ocean expanses on a flight aimed not merely at fame and glory, but at the welding of relations between two nations, and the next his battered body lay beneath the soil of a tiny island even whose name was virtually unknown to the rest of the world

Reported Trouble

From the story pieced together by eye-witnesses of the crash and the wireless messages received from the Marshal Pilsudski for some time preceding the accident, it appears Idzikowski and Kubala encountered trouble some 12 or 14 hours after they hopped off from Le Bourget flying field, near Paris, as contestants in the first transatlantic air race in history.

They preceded by some 40 minutes Captain Dieudonne Costes and Maurice Bellonte, their French rivals Both crews hoped to reach New York, and thus accomplish the first successful east-to-west crossing.

But both met the terrific headwinds which have spelled death and destruction to so many transatlantic aspirants. Costes and Bellonte turned back and avoided disaster. Idzikowski and Kubala kept on, fighting desperately, hopelessly against the winds, until finally, when in the vicinity of the Azores, they came to the realization their only hope lay in a safe landing on firm ground.

Sinister Messages

Sinister messages sputtered from their radio, telling of engine trouble and of the necessity of landing, and the football field here, the only thing approaching a landing ground, was prepared for their arrival.

There was little fear that they would fail to reach their goal in spite of their trouble, but suddenly the wireless messages ceased. Still no apprehension was felt among the gay crowds who had gathered to watch what was to have been the first descent of a land plane on this rocky island, when like a bolt from the blue came word that the Marshal Pilsudski had crashed in landing at Graciosa, and that Idzikowski had met his death.

From ere witness stories of the tragedy, it appears the fliers headed over Graciosa, a rocky island ill-suited for airplane landings, as a last resort. Several times the great gray plane circled over the island, while inhabitants signalled out the one place where a safe descent might be made—field 150 yards in length.

The plane, descending fast, headed toward the field which had been indicated, but as its wheels touched the earth, it dived and rolled headlong. Witnesses saw the body of one man hurled clear, and a moment later there came a terrific explosion, killing Idzikowski with merciful speed as he sat strapped in the pilot's seat. The plane was demolished.

Rival Fliers Mourn Death of Idzikowski

PARIS, July 15—This city was plunged into grief today by the catastrophe which befell Majors Idzikowski and Kubala, Polish entrants in the transatlantic air race starting under such auspicious circumstances from Le Bourget air field Saturday.

Captain Dieudonne Costes and Maurice Bellonte, French airmen who took off a short time after their Polish rivals, and who also failed in their attempt to span the ocean from east to west, were deeply affected by the tragedy. Both remained in virtual seclusion today, refusing any plaudits for their 29-hour flight which took them almost to the Azores and back to France again.

Costes and Bellonte returned to Paris after landing at Villacoublay aerodrome, just outside of Paris, disheartened over their failure, but convinced that no mortals nor no plane could ride out the headwinds of hurricane force which drove them back over their route after they had left a thousand miles of ocean behind them.

"We have done nothing. We want no praise," said Costes when he returned to Paris. "Our thoughts are with that gallant fellow who lies in the Azores, victim of the same relentless wind which nearly drove us to a similar fate."

"It is a pity, that guiding his plane against such terrific obstacles to a seemingly safe haven, that this accident should have occurred. Major Idzikowski was a great airman and a fine gentleman. I find it difficult to believe that he is gone. I shall never forget his splendid start Saturday on the venture he had planned so long."

Patrol Town as Guard Against Outbreak

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., July 15—This eastern shore town was still being patrolled by whites today to prevent a recurrence of the near riot precipitated Saturday night when 300 negroes were ordered to leave town after a pitched battle resulting in injuries to a score or more of negroes.

Trouble has been brewing for several weeks over the growing resentment of whites because negroes congregated on the street corners Saturday nights. It came to a head when crowds of whites herded the negroes on one side of the street. Then a negro hurled a soft drink bottle which struck a young white girl. Missles of every character soon filled the air, and as the whites gathered in force for a drive, the negroes fled the town, in some cases leaving their automobiles, grocery purchases and other belongings.

DePriest Indignant Over Action of Mob

CHICAGO, July 15—Congressman Oscar De Priest, only negro representative, expressed great indignation here today when informed that the entire negro population of North Platte, 700 men, women and children, had been forced to flee from the city after one of their race had shot a policeman and then committeed suicide.

"Absolute injustice. Mob ruling is entirely wrong and I am against such action," said the negro congressman. "If a colored boy commits a crime, he should be punished under the law and not by mobs. He committed suicide, didn't he? Well, that satisfies the law, doesn't it?

"If a colored boy does anything against the law, he should be prosecuted without any racial discrimination.

"Those 225 men, women and children didn't do anything against the law. They should not be forced to flee from their homes and from the city. It is rank injustice and the leaders of the mob should be punished."

Religious Need Discussed In Sermon by Dr. George At Union Church Service

Epworth Pastor Says Our Day and Age Stands Greatly in Need of Some Stabilizing Force; Other Marion Ministers Join in Program

"We all need religion. This is no day to be without it," declared Dr. R. L. George, pastor of Epworth M. E. church, at union services held last night at First Reformed church. Dr. George's sermon on "Pauline Religion," was delivered before one of the largest union service congregations this summer.

Continuing, Dr. George said: "When a delegation of Presbyterian ministers called upon President Hoover recently, he said that disregard for law in the United States was more a matter of morals than of politics or law. But no lasting, high quality of morals will be found without religious faith as a guide and inspiration.

"Our day and age stands greatly in need of some power or force which can stabilize it, and be a balance wheel to its varied activities. Probably Paul of Tarsus had found this secret of stability and equilibrium and of triumph under all sorts of situations when he uttered the words of my text: 'For I know whom I have believed and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed to Him against that day.'

"Paul of Tarsus had very definite views and convictions upon religious matters; he arrived at such over a road somewhat troublous. His beliefs had stood up under trial, and while it sounds a bit egotistical to assert, we are sure and certain about religious matters in a day quite matter of fact and scientific.

"Religion with Paul was a personal relationship to Jesus of Nazareth With Paul, religion was both a passion and a method.

"It requires time, much time, to get acquainted and come to fully know anybody, and Christ is no exception to this rule. Our day is too hurried to get acquainted with Him. And yet, we do not fail to realize we evermore need Christ," Dr. George concluded.

The services were opened with the invocation by the Rev. Lawrence A Wood, pastor of Trinity Baptist church. The Rev. George E Graves, pastor of Central Christian church read the responses to the scripture reading.

The Rev. Karl W. Paton, pastor of the Prospect Street M E church led in prayer. The Rev. H. F. Werkmueller, pastor of First Reformed church, presided during the services and an interested discussion at the young peoples meeting at 7 o'clock.

Oscar De Priest, Negro Congressman, Proves New Inspiration to His Race

Chicagoan Nearing Stature of National Spokesman for Colored Folk; Possessed of Desire To Do Something for His People

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES
Marion Star Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 15—Not since Booker T. Washington have the 11,000,000 negroes in the United States had anybody who approached the stature of a national or racial spokesman Leaderless, without representation in congress, and in many places denied suffrage, they have formed a floating, inarticulate 10 per cent of the populace.

There have been many ambitious negroes who aspired to the racial leadership once held by Washington. But all of them somehow came to grief or fell short of the mark. Marcus Garvey had ambitions, with his "back to Africa" movement and his Universal Improvement Association. He finally wound up in prison. Perry Howard, the enterprising Mississippi politician who became an assistant attorney general, had visions of leadership. He collided with an indictment charging patronage graft. And so it has gone.

The shrewd white politicians of Washington are now watching Rep. Oscar Del'riest of Chicago, with narrowed eyes. DePriest is the first negro to sit in congress since the turn of the century. Moreover, he is able, energetic and possessed of a racial consciousness that makes him burn with zeal to accomplish something for the benefit of his people.

No Accident

DePriest is no electrocal accident such as occasionally is washed into the halls of congress. He is serving his first term, and it is quite likely he will serve more terms, for his district on Chicago's south side is predominately black. There are a lot of his white colleagues who wish they had as good a hold on their districts as the Chicago negro. It looks, in fact, as though he were going to be here for a long, long time.

Inevitably, Representative DePriest has sprung into national prominence among his people. He is being literally deluged with invitations to address negro meetings all over the country. And he is accepting as many of these invitations as his congressional duties permit. He is making speeches, and he is talking politics to his people in a way that no other negro in recent years has talked to them. And his position lends weight to his words.

DePriest is a Republican, but he is a negro first. Recently he has addressed audiences in New Jersey and in Tennessee. He is advising his people to organize in order to obtain their "political and civil rights." He meticulously refrains from the word "social." Recently in speaking at a negro political rally, he said, in substance:

Must Organize

"There are nearly 150 congressional districts in the United States in which negroes hold the balance of power between the two parties. If you don't organize yourselves and realize upon that situation, then you deserve to be down-trodden."

For his own part, the Chicago Congressman is intent upon being a negro first. He has announced he will continue to appoint negro candidates to West Point and Annapolis until there are black officers in both the Army and the Navy.

"Why not?" he says. "They'll make good officers."

The politicians are watching DePriest's activities with deep interest —and not a little trepidation. There are other congressional districts in large cities where negroes predominate, and where, if they are not in the actual majority, they are sufficiently powerful to decide an election. Probably DePriest's estimate of 150 districts where negroes hold the balance of power is a bit liberal, but New York, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Boston, Philadelphia, St Louis, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Cincinnati and other cities have large negro populations, and as the migration from the South increases these populations are steadily growing.

Success Inspiring

DePriest's success in Chicago, and his exhortation to his people to organize will have the effect of inspiring more negroes to stand for election.

One politician here made a private prediction to the writer that within 10 years there would be not one, but half a dozen and probably more negroes in congress. He has a lot of them in his state, and keeps in fairly close touch with what is going on among them. He said that DePriest has become "the negro of the hour" to his people since March 4.

Perhaps it would be extravagant to say, at this early date, that Oscar DePriest is destined to become the spokesman for his race that Booker T. Washington was, but the politicians of Washington believe he is headed for a position of leadership such as no negro since Washington has had.

Girl is Graduate From Stanford at Age of 17

SAN FRANCISCO, July — School isn't over yet for Miss Betty Ford, 17-year-old San Francisco girl, who today claims the distinction of being the youngest co-ed ever to graduate from Stanford University.

She has her degree after spending but six years in school—three at the university and three in the high school departments of two private schools.

A prodigy since babyhood, Miss Ford, an attractive athletic girl, plans to return to Stanford next term for post-graduate work. Then a literary career with a try for the great American novel.

Betty, the only child of Dr. and Mrs. Campbell Ford, attracted the attention of Professor Lewis I. Terman, noted Stanford psychologist, when she was only seven years old.

Always Smart

Since then she has virtually been a laboratory specimen, and, figuratively, under the microscope of learned professors.

Here are high-lights in her remarkable career:

At seven months, she walked—at nine months talked and knew the alphabet.

She read easily at the age of three without instruction and when seven she had read 750 books and had a vocabulary of 13,000 words.

Played the violin the first time she had one in her hands; mastered the piano as a child, and pounded a typewriter when 6 years old.

Until she was 11 Betty had no formal schooling—her parents turned her loose in a well stocked library. At 14 she was graduated from the Anna Head School in Berkeley, and passed entrance examinations for Stanford.

In Stanford her course had been broadened to include plenty of science. She reads and writes German, French and Spanish as fluently as English.

Had Pleasures

Betty completed the usual four-year course in three.

But she did not sacrifice the pleasures of college life for scholastic honors. Popular with classmates, she excelled in swimming, dancing and tennis. And she draws, paints and illustrates with a professional touch. In literature, she has attracted attention as a writer of verse and fiction.

As to a career, that's for Betty to decide.

Her parents have adopted a "hands-off" policy.

Special Song Services To Feature Meetings

Special song services will feature the meetings scheduled to continue through this week at the tent meetings held on Oak st., under the auspices of the Pilgrim Holiness church. Miss Dorothy Dobie, of Springfield, will be heard in a number of special selections, it is announced. The meetings will begin each night at 7:45 o'clock. The Rev. J. V. Cook will be the speaker at the services tonight.

Five persons responded to the altar call at last night's service.

WOMAN'S SLAYER SOUGHT IN COLUMBUS

Mrs. Mamie Short, 35, of Jackson, O. Found Slashed to Death

COLUMBUS, July 15—Mrs. Mamie Short, 35, of Jackson, O., was slashed to death at the home of her aunt, Mrs Mary Cartwright, here today.

Police immediately spread a dragnet for Harry Burke, 38, who, it is said, was seen entering the house shortly before the woman was found dead.

According to the woman's 12-year-old daughter, Era, Burk had remained in the Cartwright yard throughout the night. He was intoxicated, the girl declared.

Burke is the proprietor of a local second hand clothing and furniture store.

He is said to have been a frequent visitor at the house where Mrs. Short was staying

The Jackson woman came here about a week ago from her southern Ohio home town, where her husband now resides.

152 OIL LEASES ARE FILED IN BUCYRUS

Transactions Cover 15,000 Acres in Three Crawford County Townships

(Special to The Star)

BUCYRUS, July 15—Prospects of an oil boom in northern Crawford county loomed here today when C. L. Williams, petroleum engineer for H. E. Weir of Pittsburgh, Pa., filed 152 oil and gas leases with the county recorder.

Oil and gas activity in the section covered by the leases will get under way within the next few days when a well will be put down on the Mrs Catherine Walther farm in Liberty township, according to plans divulged today.

The leases cover 15,000 acres of land in Liberty, Chatfield and Jackson townships. The last two section border the southern section of Seneca county, the scene of considerable oil and gas activity in the past several years.

Although a number of other leases have been filed in the county in the past, reports show that no attempts have been made to reach oil.

Complete plans of the Weir interests were not announced.

Firstenberger Services To Be Held at Edison

Funeral services for Mrs. Marie Firstenberger Smith, of Edison, Route No. 1, who died July 13 at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, will be held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at her home and at 2:30 o'clock at the Edison M. E. church. The Rev Mr. Riggs, pastor of the Edison church, will be assisted by the Rev. H. F. Werkmueller, pastor of the First Reformed church of this city, of which she was formerly a member.

Burial will be made at Cardington.

Marion County Is Well Provided With Game Refuges, Game Protector Says

Marion county is well provided with game refuges in the opinion of O. H Neimeyer, game warden for the county, who reveals that 1 745 acres of land have been leased by the state for that purpose

Each county is supposed to have about 1 000 acres of refuge land Mr Neimeyer said, but as some counties have none acme other counties have more than 1,000 acres The refuges are leased by the state to provide a refuge for all wild birds and animals, and may be protected against fishing.

The total acreage of refuges in Marion county is composed of two tracts on in Pleasant twp and another in Pig Island tsp The largest single lease is to the state for this purpose is the Leech Hopkins in Pig Island twp from which 800 acres have been protected The remaining tracts lie in Pleasant twp, made up of the farms of Charles Lee Almendinger Samuel J Hopkins Leonard R Hopkins Orvill Barnhart John Gorcullo Katherine Creel John Dunbar Robert C M Lewis N P Barnhart. The farms are so connected that they form a single tract of several hundred acres

These lands have been leased for a period of 10 years Mr Neimeyer stated The refuge idea was inaugurated in this county in 1922 when several farms were leased for two year periods The next lease was mad for five years and the last ones written for 10 Practically all of the land now protected was included in the last two year lea there being no new territory recently acquired

Without a doubt there is more ring necked pheasants in Marion county than any other county in the state Mr Neimeyer indicated The birds seem to realize when the refuges are located as they will fly for miles to get on protected land when shooting begins during hunting season

Among the birds in Pleasant twp are the ring necked pheasants Hungarian partridge rinnecked pheasants and rabbit For hunting on a game refuge a violator may be fined no less than $25 nor more than $100 but is liable to a fine of the same amount for each bird or animal he may have at the time of his arrest Thus if a hunter was caught with three pheasants, he would be subject to fines of not less than $75 nor more than $300 each bird and the fact that he was hunting on the refuge constituting an offense

DR. PARKER'S TREATMENT ENDS STOMACH TROUBLES

Wonderful Prescription Works Miracle in Relief of Indigestion and Chronic Disorders of Stomach.

ALBERT COLE
323-Camden Ave, Columbus, O

"No words can describe the miseries that I suffered for over seven years from chronic indigestion, and constipation, and from sick headaches billousness and gas on the stomach. I tried one medicine after another, doctor after doctor The best I could get was only temporary relief and not even that after a while I felt sluggish and miserable all the time A friend induced me to try Dr Parkers' Treatment. Wonder of wonders! Where all others failed Dr Parker's produced almost instant relief Before I had taken half a can my stomach and bowels started to act properly, the poisons were driven from my body and after taking only three cans my aches and pains vanished to return no more. I give all credit and praise to Dr Parker's Treatment for being able to enjoy life once more No family should be without a can of it"

WILL SEARCH BOAT PARTIES FOR BOOZE

Toledo's Younger Set To Be Under Supervision, Official Says

TOLEDO July 15 members of Toledo's younger set going for the moonlight rides on the steamer Greyhound across the broad expanse of Lake Erie will be forced to submit to a search for liquor before they are allowed to walk aboard according to announcement which had been made here today by H J Stalker superintendent of the Red Star Navigation Co which owns the boat.

Stalker declared his action was forced by a police raid last week in which eight persons were arrested and charged with having quantities of liquor concealed about their persons

Five of those arrested at that time were women Stalker said According to prohibition agents one of the women had eight pint bottles concealed beneath her dress

I have more of the opinion that booze hounds found a thriving trade among the young people who are wont to cruise over the lake aboard the Greyhound

Most of the passengers of the Greyhound are young couples Stalker declared and he said he wished to protect them from buying from bootleggers

Women inspectors will be on hand to search the young lady passengers Stalker stated

Bulldog Sleeps Peacefully as Burglar Works

COLUMBUS July 15—Such things as a mere $1 000 platinum bracelet mean nothing in the life of a bulldog

While the dog of Mr and Mrs Mac Manaman dozed contentedly in a corner of their bedroom early yesterday morning a burglar entered the room through a window He escaped with the $1000 platinum bracelet and a $1 bill

As he left the burglar threw the empty purse which had contained the money in the hallway He awakened Mr Mac Manaman who called police

No trace of the burglar was found

To couples wanting a home—

Every married man will be a better man if he has a HOME, instead of a furnished room, to go to after a day's work.

Every married woman is entitled to a little home of her own. Sooner or later she will feel that she is not getting a square deal if she is deprived of the pleasures that a home provide.

There is little responsibility when you furnish a home You pay a small amount down and your furniture is delivered. Then you pay just what you can afford to pay each week, every two weeks, or once a month—as you prefer.

If you do this you are paying for your own furniture instead of paying your landlord a profit on HIS furniture In a short time you will have it all paid for.

They say to contractors, "We are going to protect you, and you are going to pay us two per cent of your gross receipts, with a salary for our head racketeer."

Some contractors could not see the point, and buildings under construction, dealing with them, were burned.

Contractors doing work on a close basis, leaving no margin for the racket, were warned, "It will be healthy for you to break that contract."

They testify that they took the hint. It is a complicated business world.

TUROFFS TO REOPEN TUESDAY MORNING

Restaurant Redecorated, New Equipment Added; Will Have Dietician

Turoff's restaurant, on South Main st., will reopen at 11 o'clock Tuesday. The restaurant has been closed since last Thursday for extensive repairs and remodeling.

According to James G. Turoff, one of the proprietors, the several changes in the mode of operation will be instituted with the opening Tuesday. In the future only women cooks will be employed.

Another inovation will be the employment of a dietician. At present four graduates of home economics schools are being considered for the position. The addition of many new recipes to the culinary department of the restaurant will result in numerous new dishes being introduced on the daily menus, it was stated today.

The restaurant, including the dining room and kitchen, has been completely redecorated and equipped. Jade green with trimmings of black and Chinese red form the color scheme of the dining room. New chairback seats replace the former stools at the counter. The seats are also finished in green with upholstering in red and black.

A complete counter service will be one of the features of the restaurant when reopened. New coffee urns have been installed and electric refrigeration will replace ice.

With the exception of steam tables the kitchen has been completely re-equipped. Electric refrigeration has also been installed. Another addition to the kitchen will be a pastry department with an experienced baker in charge. The kitchen space has been practically doubled. A new range and a broiler for steaks and chops are other additions to the equipment.

Family Reunions

Hinklin

Carl McGuire, Irey av., was elected president of the Henry, Mary Hinklin family reunion, at the seventh annual meeting, held yesterday at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Burdge, west of Marseilles. Ralph Hinklin, East Church st., was elected vice president and Marion Stonebraker, of Huntington, Ind., was elected secretary-treasurer. Business of the organization was taken care of at the close of the election.

A picnic dinner was served cafeteria style at noon. The afternoon was spent in horseshoe pitching, ball, croquet and horseback riding. Later in the afternoon a program of recitations, vocal solos, piano solos and duets, chalk drawing and dancing was given. Mr. Burdge gave an entertaining acrobatic clowning act.

Watermelon and homemade ice cream were served as refreshments after the program.

Seminary Student Will Hold Church Services

H. J. Zuren, student of Eden Seminary at St. Louis, Mo., was in charge of services at Salem Evangelical church Sunday morning. After the close of the services, for which there was a large attendance, a short congregational meeting was held.

Arrangements were made to have Mr. Zuren take charge of the services until the middle of September when the Rev. Paul Bourquin, of Elyria, will take over the pastorate.

Man in Jail Asks Help Against Wife

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—A man, although lodged in a county jail of Florida, recently appealed to Attorney General Davis to protect him from the molestations of his wife.

The attorney general passed the request to the county in which the man was incarcerated with the following opinion:

"There is no law which gives a man's wife the right to molest him while he is enjoying himself in peace in the county jail."

German Man Works as Maid in New York

BERLIN—Many a New York family will be surprised to learn that the excellent maid which it had at some time during the last four years was really a young man who has just returned to his native Frankfurt with $5,000 in his pocket.

The young man whose name is not revealed found on arrival in New York four years ago that it was a hard job to find a job as a man. But he also learned of the great shortage of household help. So he changed to woman's clothes and soon had good positions in fashionable households as "maid" drawing between $80 and $120 a month plus room and board.

He returns to Frankfurt as a man of means and is expected to find imitators.

ISOLATED ISLE HOLDS GRAVE OF AVIATOR

machine were soon consumed by fire.

Idzikowski, piloting the plane, was strapped to his seat. Otherwise he might have been thrown clear of the burning plane and possibly escaped with injuries.

Customs guards rushed to the assistance of the men. They found Kubala unconscious. Under the debris they discovered the mutilated remains of Idzikowski. He had been killed almost instantly, it was believed.

Spectators Slightly Hurt

Spectators who had been watching the downward swoop of the plane, rushed forward when they heard the explosion. Some of them were injured by flying fragments of the gasoline tank. None was seriously hurt, however.

Kubala's most serious wounds were in the head, but his body and limbs were badly bruised.

Kubala, unconscious, was rushed to the nearest hospital. After an examination a doctor said his injuries were serious but he hoped for recovery.

It was decided to bury idzikowski at once at the spot where he was killed. So far as known the Polish authorities will allow his body to remain there. It was a simple funeral service for a man whose name was flashed over the entire world by radio when he and his companion hopped off for America.

Only a little more than 24 hours after Europe and America were thrilled by the news the Marshal Pilsudski and the French Question Mark had taken off at Le Bourget in the first transatlantic air race in history, the population of the obscure little island of Graciosa were standing at an open grave listening to an aged priest intone the burial service. The last rites were conducted with military honors.

Hold Burial Rites

Major Idzikowski's body, removed from the battered wreckage of the plane which had proved his death trap, were buried with simple honors on Graciosa, one of the smallest islands in the Azores group. Mangled and torn by the impact of the crash and the explosion of gasoline which immediately followed it, the famous airman's body was placed in a casket less than 24 hours after the accident had occurred and was lowered into its grave.

One day the adventurous flier was speeding over the ocean expanses on a flight aimed not merely at fame and glory, but at the welding of relations between two nations, and the next his battered body lay beneath the soil of a tiny island even whose name was virtually unknown to the rest of the world.

Reported Trouble

From the story pieced together by eye-witnesses of the crash and the wireless messages received from the Marshal Pilsudski for some time preceding the accident, it appears Idzikowski and Kubala encountered trouble some 12 or 14 hours after they hopped off from Le Bourget flying field, near Paris, as contestants in the first transatlantic air race in history.

They preceded by some 40 minutes Captain Dieudonne Costes and Maurice Bellonte, their French rivals. Both crews hoped to reach New York, and thus accomplish the first successful east-to-west crossing.

But both met the terrific headwinds which have spelled death and destruction to so many transatlantic aspirants. Costes and Bellonte turned back and avoided disaster. Idzikowski and Kubala kept on, fighting desperately, hopelessly against the winds, until finally, when in the vicinity of the Azores, they came to the realization their only hope lay in a safe landing on firm ground.

Sinister Messages

Sinister messages sputtered from their radio, telling of engine trouble and of the necessity of landing, and the football field here, the only thing approaching a landing ground, was prepared for their arrival.

There was little fear that they would fail to reach their goal in spite of their trouble, but suddenly the wireless messages ceased. Still no apprehension was felt among the gay crowds who had gathered to watch what was to have been the first descent of a land plane on this rocky island, when like a bolt from the blue came word that the Marshal Pilsduski had crushed in landing at Graciosa, and that Idzikowski had met his death.

From eye-witness stories of the tragedy, it appears the fliers headed over Graciosa, a rocky island ill-suited for airplane landings, as a last resort. Several times the great gray plane circled over the island, while inhabitants signalled out the one place where a safe descent might be made—field 150 yards in length.

The plane, descending fast, headed toward the field which had been indicated, but as its wheels touched the earth, it dived and rolled headlong. Witnesses saw the body of one man hurled clear, and a moment later there came a terrific explosion, killing Idzikowski with merciful speed as he sat strapped in the pilot's seat. The plane was demolished.

Rival Fliers Mourn Death of Idzikowski

PARIS, July 15—This city was plunged into grief today by the catastrophe which befell Majors Idzikowski and Kubala, Polish entrants in the transatlantic air race starting under such auspicious circumstances from Le Bourget air field Saturday.

Captain Dieudonne Costes and Maurice Bellonte, French airmen who took off a short time after their Polish rivals, and who also failed in their attempt to span the ocean from east to west, were deeply affected by the tragedy. Both remained in virtual seclusion today, refusing any plaudits for their 20-hour flight which took them almost to the Azores and back to France again.

Costes and Bellonte returned to Paris after landing at Villacoublay aerodrome, just outside of Paris, disheartened over their failure, but convinced that no mortals nor no plane could ride out the headwinds of hurricane force which drove them back over their route after they had left a thousand miles of ocean behind them.

"We have done nothing. We want no praise," said Costes when he returned to Paris. "Our thoughts are with that gallant fellow who lies in the Azores, victim of the same relentless wind which nearly drove us to a similar fate."

"It is a pity, that guiding his plane against such terrific obstacles to a seemingly safe haven, that this accident should have occurred. Major Idzikowski was a great airman and a fine gentleman. I find it difficult to believe that he is gone. I shall never forget his splendid start Saturday on the venture he had planned so long."

Some of the exiles said they would return to southern states where they lived before coming to Nebraska, and others said they would go to Chicago and Omaha.

The demonstration started when Edward Green, policeman, was shot to death by Louis Seelman, negro accused of wifebeating, who later ended his own life.

Patrol Town as Guard Against Outbreak

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., July 15—This eastern shore town was still being patrolled by whites today to prevent a recurrence of the near riot precipitated Saturday night when 300 negroes were ordered to leave town after a pitched battle resulting in injuries to a score or more of negroes.

Trouble has been brewing for several weeks over the growing resentment of whites because negroes congregated on the street corners Saturday nights. It came to a head when crowds of whites herded the negroes on one side of the street. Then a negro hurled a soft drink bottle which struck a young white girl. Missles of every character soon filled the air, and as the whites gathered in force for a drive, the negroes fled the town, in some cases leaving their automobiles, grocery purchases and other belongings.

DePriest Indignant Over Action of Mob

CHICAGO, July 15—Congressman Oscar De Priest, only negro representative, expressed great indignation here today when informed that the entire negro population of North Platte, 700 men, women and children, had been forced to flee from the city after one of their race had shot a policeman and then committed suicide.

"Absolute injustice. Mob ruling is entirely wrong and I am against such action," said the negro congressman. "If a colored boy commits a crime, he should be punished under the law and not by mobs. He committed suicide, didn't he? Well, that satisfies the law, doesn't it?

"If a colored boy does anything against the law, he should be prosecuted without any racial discrimination.

"Those 225 men, women and children didn't do anything against the law. They should not be forced to flee from their homes and from the city. It is rank injustice and the leaders of the mob should be punished."

FUNERAL TUESDAY

Alheit Service To Be Held in Marion and Galion

Funeral services for C. I. Alheit, veteran Erie railway employe, who died July 12 at Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., will be held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Artz, 282 Chestnut st., and at 2 o'clock at First Reformed church, South Prospect st. The Rev. George F. Zinn, pastor of the First Reformed church of Galion, will be in charge of the services.

The Marion chapter of the Brotherhood Railway Trainmen will be in charge of services at the grave in Fairview cemetery, Galion.

Religious Need Discussed In Sermon by Dr. George At Union Church Service

Epworth Pastor Says Our Day and Age Stands Greatly In Need of Some Stabilizing Force; Other Marion Ministers Join in Program

"We all need religion. This is no day to be without it," declared Dr. R. L. George, pastor of Epworth M. E. church, at union services held last night at First Reformed church. Dr. George's sermon on "Pauline Religion," was delivered before one of the largest union service congregations this summer.

Continuing, Dr. George said: "When a delegation of Presbyterian ministers called upon President Hoover recently, he said that disregard for law in the United States was more a matter of morals than of politics or law. But no lasting, high quality of morals will be found without religious faith as a guide and inspiration.

"Our day and age stands greatly in need of some power or force which can stabilize it, and be a balance wheel to its varied activities. Probably Paul of Tarsus had found this secret of stability and equilibrium and of triumph under all sorts of situations when he uttered the words of my text: 'For I know whom I have believed and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed to Him against that day.'

"Paul of Tarsus had very definite views and convictions upon religious matters; he arrived at such over a road somewhat troublous. His beliefs had stood up under trial, and while it sounds a bit egotistical to assert, we are sure and certain about religious matters in a day quite matter of fact and scientific.

"Religion with Paul was a personal relationship to Jesus of Nazareth. With Paul, religion was both a passion and a method.

"It requires time, much time, to get acquainted and come to fully know anybody, and Christ is no exception to this rule. Our day is too hurried to get acquainted with Him. And yet, we do not fail to realize we evermore need Christ," Dr. George concluded.

The services were opened with the invocation by the Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor of Trinity Baptist church. The Rev. George E. Groves, pastor of Central Christian church read the responses to the scripture reading.

The Rev. Karl W. Patow, pastor of the Prospect Street M. E. church, lead in prayer. The Rev. H. F. Weckmueller, pastor of First Reformed church, presided during the services and an interested discussion at the young peoples meeting at 7 o'clock.

Oscar DePriest, Negro Congressman, Proves New Inspiration to His Race

Chicagoan Nearing Stature of National Spokesman for Colored Folk; Possessed of Desire To Do Something for His People

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES
Marion Star Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 15—Not since Booker T. Washington have the 13,000,000 negroes in the United States had anybody who approached the stature of a national or racial spokesman. Leaderless, without representation in congress, and in many places denied suffrage, they have formed a floating, inarticulate 10 per cent of the populace.

There have been many ambitious negroes who aspired to the racial leadership once held by Washington. But all of them somehow came to grief or fell short of the mark. Marcus Garvey had ambitions, with his "back to Africa" movement and his Universal Improvement Association. He finally wound up in prison. Perry Howard, the enterprising Mississippi politician who became an assistant attorney general, had visions of leadership. He collided with an indictment charging patronage graft. And so it has gone.

The shrewd white politicians of Washington are now watching Rep. Oscar DePriest of Chicago, with narrowed eyes. DePriest is the first negro to sit in congress since the turn of the century. Moreover, he is able, energetic and possessed of a racial consciousness that makes him burn with zeal to accomplish something for the benefit of his people.

No Accident

DePriest is no electrocal accident such as occasionally is washed into the halls of congress. He is serving his first term, and it is quite likely he will serve more terms, for his district on Chicago's south side is predominately black. There are a lot of his white colleagues who wish they had as good a hold on their districts as the Chicago negro. It looks, in fact, as though he were going to be here for a long, long time.

Inevitably, Representative DePriest has sprung into national prominence among his people. He is being literally deluged with invitations to address negro meetings all over the country. And he is accepting as many of these invitations as his congressional duties permit. He is making speeches, and he is talking politics to his people in a way that no other negro in recent years has talked to them. And his position lends weight to his words.

DePriest is a Republican, but he is a negro first. Recently he has addressed audiences in New Jersey and in Tennessee. He is advising his people to organize in order to obtain their "political and civil rights." He meticulously refrains from the word "social." Recently in speaking at a negro political rally, he said, in substance:

Must Organize

"There are nearly 150 congressional districts in the United States in which negroes hold the balance of power between the two parties. If you don't organize yourselves and realize upon that situation, then you deserve to be down-trodden."

For his own part, the Chicago Congressman is intent upon being a negro first. He has announced he will continue to appoint negro candidates to West Point and Annapolis until there are black officers in both the Army and the Navy.

"Why not?" he says. "They'll make good officers."

The politicians are watching DePriest's activities with deep interest—and not a little trepidation. There are other congressional districts in large cities where negroes predominate, and where, if they are not in the actual majority, they are sufficiently powerful to decide an election. Probably DePriest's estimate of 150 districts where negroes hold the balance of power is a bit liberal, but New York, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Boston, Philadelphia, St Louis, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Cincinnati and other cities have large negro populations, and as the migration from the South increases these populations are steadily growing.

Success Inspiring

Inevitably DePriest's success in Chicago, and his exhortation to his people to organize will have the effect of inspiring more negroes to stand for election.

One politician here made a private prediction to the writer that within 10 years there would be not one, but half a dozen and probably more negroes in congress. He has a lot of them in his state, and keeps in fairly close touch with what is going on among them. He said that DePriest has become "the negro of the hour" to his people since March 4.

Perhaps it would be extravagant to say, at this early date, that Oscar DePriest is destined to become the spokesman for his race that Booker T. Washington was, but the politicians of Washington believe he is headed for a position of leadership such as no negro since Washington has had.

Girl is Graduate From Stanford at Age of 17

SAN FRANCISCO, July —School isn't over yet for Miss Betty Ford, 17-year-old San Francisco girl, who today claims the distinction of being the youngest co-ed ever to graduate from Stanford University.

She has her degree after spending but six years in school—three at the university and three in the high school departments of two private schools.

A prodigy since babyhood, Miss Ford, an attractive athletic girl, plans to return to Stanford next term for post-graduate work. Then a literary career with a try for the great American novel.

Betty, the only child of Dr. and Mrs. Campbell Ford, attracted the attention of Professor Lewis I. Terman, noted Stanford psychologist, when she was only seven years old.

Always Smart

Since then she has virtually been a laboratory specimen, and, figuratively, under the microscope of learned professors.

Here are high-lights in her remarkable career:

At seven months, she walked—at nine months talked and knew the alphabet.

She read easily at the age of three without instruction and when seven she had read 750 books and had a vocabulary of 13,000 words.

Played the violin the first time she had one in her hands; mastered the piano as a child, and pounded a typewriter when 6 years old.

Until she was 11 Betty had no formal schooling—her parents turned her loose in a well stocked library. At 14 she was graduated from the Anna Head School in Berkeley, and passed entrance examinations for Stanford.

In Stanford her course had been broadened to include plenty of science. She reads and writes German, French and Spanish as fluently as English.

Had Pleasures

Betty completed the usual four-year course in three.

But she did not sacrifice the pleasures of college life for scholastic honors. Popular with classmates, she excelled in swimming, dancing and tennis. And she draws, paints and illustrates with a professional touch. In literature, she has attracted attention as a writer of verse and fiction.

As to a career, that's for Betty to decide.

Her parents have adopted a "hands-off" policy.

Special Song Services To Feature Meetings

Special song services will feature the meetings scheduled to continue through this week at the tent meetings held on Oak st., under the auspices of the Pilgrim Holiness church. Miss Dorothy Dobie, of Springfield, will be heard in a number of special selections, it is announced. The meetings will begin each night at 7:45 o'clock. The Rev. J. V. Cook will be the speaker at the services tonight.

Five persons responded to the altar call at last night's service.

WOMAN'S SLAYER SOUGHT IN COLUMBUS

Mrs. Mamie Short, 35, of Jackson, O. Found Slashed to Death

COLUMBUS, July 15—Mrs. Mamie Short, 35, of Jackson, O., was slashed to death at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Mary Cortwright, here today.

Police immediately spread a dragnet for Harry Burke, 38, who, it is said, was seen entering the house shortly before the woman was found dead.

According to the woman's 12-year-old daughter, Eva, Burk had remained in the Cortwright yard throughout the night. He was intoxicated, the girl declared.

Burke is the proprietor of a local second-hand clothing and furniture store.

He is said to have been a frequent visiter at the house where Mrs. Short was staying.

The Jackson woman came here about a week ago from her southern Ohio home town, where her husband now resides.

152 OIL LEASES ARE FILED IN BUCYRUS

Transactions Cover 15,000 Acres in Three Crawford County Townships

(Special to The Star)

BUCYRUS, July 15—Prospects of an oil boom in northern Crawford county loomed here today when C. L. Williams, petroleum engineer for D. E. Weir of Pittsburgh, Pa., filed 152 oil and gas leases with the county recorder.

Oil and gas activity in the section covered by the leases will get under way within the next few days when a well will be put down on the Miss Catherine Walther farm in Liberty township, according to plans divulged today.

The leases cover 15,000 acres of land in Liberty, Chatfield and Lykens townships. The last two section border the southern section of Seneca county, the scene of considerable oil and gas activity in the past several years.

Although a number of other leases have been filed in the county in the past, reports show that no attempts have been made to reach oil.

Complete plans of the Weir interests were not announced.

Firstenberger Services To Be Held at Edison

Funeral services for Mrs. Marie Firstenberger Smith, of Edison, Route No. 1, who died July 13 at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, will be held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at her home and at 2:30 o'clock at the Edison M. E. church. The Rev. Mr. Riggs, pastor of the Edison church, will be assisted by the Rev. H. F. Weckmueller, pastor of the First Reformed church of this city, of which she was formerly a member.

Burial will be made at Cardington.

Restored to Active Duty.

It is fairly safe to predict that the restoration of Rear Admiral Thomas P Magruder to the active list of the navy and placing him in command of the fleet base at San Diego California, will meet with general approval This prediction is not based upon the conviction that the rear admiral was altogether without offending in the matter which caused him to be relieved from active duty, but rather upon the conviction that the American people have for months felt that he was dealt with unfairly in the manner of his removal from active duty His flagship was taken from him without court martial or without his removal from the promotion or pay rolls and he was placed on waiting orders —a very unusual instance in the history of our navy for one of his rank

It is conceivable that one unfit for the place he occupied, but against whom a charge of unfitness was recognized as difficult of proof, probably might have been treated thus, but there was a decided feeling that a naval officer with a record such as his—a distinguished one—should not have been thus treated

Magruder was graduated from the Naval academy in 1880 when twenty two years old and during the Spanish American war he was advanced five numbers in the rank files for "eminent and conspicuous conduct in battle" During the early days of America's participation in the World war he served as chief of staff of the United States patrol squadron in France Early in 1918 he was appointed district commander of L'Orient which post he held until the armistice He was appointed temporary rear admiral in April 1920 and received the permanent rank in June 1921

In November of 1927 following the publication of certain articles written by him in a well known magazine he was relieved of active duty by the navy department high command for the reason that the articles were considered by officials to have been critical of naval policies and administration At that time he was in charge of the Fourth naval district with headquarters in Philadelphia Called on to the carpet before Secretary of the Navy Wilbur he vigorously upheld the views expressed by him in the articles but he was immediately placed on the inactive list where he remained for twenty months till restored by Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams last week

At the time he was relieved from command Secretary Wilbur stated that the rear admiral's punishment was "not punitive but administrative" In other words the then secretary probably meant to hold out that the rear admiral was not to be punished for telling the truth but was retired from active duty because it was against the policy of the administration to tell it.

"The Lion of Champagne"

The members of the Rainbow Division Veterans association have had as their guest of honor at their annual convention in Baltimore which closed today, General Henri J E Gourand military governor of Paris and commander of his country's first army in the World war

Since the arrival of the general in this country last week his course has been marked by an ovation wherever he has appeared He was given the unusual honor of a thirteen gun salute after sundown when the liner, Paris reached New York about midnight Wednesday, and the cordiality of his receptions in Washington and Baltimore was as marked as in New York City

And well may the United States pay this maimed and battle scarred veteran honor as he was easily one of the outstanding figures of the World war In none of the Allied armies was there an abler commander in the field He entered the world conflict following twenty years active experience in the Soudan and Morocco, and the reputation he made for himself in Africa was enhanced and developed in the Gallipoli campaign and in the handling of the Fourth army with which stemming the German advance he turned the foe backward and drove it before him until it asked for an armistice looking to the discussion of terms of peace

It is said of Gourand that he always fought with his head but while this is true he showed himself personally courageous and he seemingly knew not the meaning of fear Shot through both legs and an arm in Gallipoli and told that three months treatment probably would save his arm he asked how soon he could return to the front if his arm were amputated When he was told that the time would be shortened at least a month he chose to have it cut off and thus it is that one of his sleeves is empty today

It was on July 14 eleven years ago that Gourand issued the battle order which preceded the smashing victory of the French and American armies which had its inception two days later an order Napoleonic in its phrasing but which is now the less treasured in the memories of the Rainbow veterans whose guest the general has been Headed Official Appeal to the French and American Soldiers of the Army the order read

"We may be attacked from one moment to another You all feel that a defensive battle was never engaged in under more favorable conditions We are warned and we are on our guard We have received strong reinforcements of infantry and artillery You will fight on ground which by your assiduous labor you have transformed into a formidable fortress into a fortress which is invincible if the passages are well guarded

The bombardment will be terrible You will endure it without weakness The attack in a cloud of dust and gas will be fierce but your positions and your armament are formidable

The strong and brave hearts of free men beat in your breasts None will look behind none will give way Every man will have but one thought—kill them kill them in abundance until they have had enough And therefore your general tells you it will be a glorious day

The great attack was made The defenses set up did prove a formidable fortress The enemy assault was in vain It was turned back Not content with that the strong and brave hearts left their formidable fortress threw themselves against the enemy, broke all resistance and shattered the best trained and best prepared army known to man

Thus it is that America and especially the Americans who fought under him do honor to The Lion of Champagne

The Stoughton Wisconsin W C T U has requested the board of education up there to refuse positions to teachers who smoke It's amazing how prone we Americans have become to attempt the regulation of other people's personal habits

It's hard to understand why there should have been doubt that the 100 passenger twenty five ton Pernler plane would fly but no matter what the explanation of the doubt three successful trial flights have exploded it Even twenty five tons do not constitute so much of a load for twelve motors of 6 300 combined horsepower

The Hon Jimmy Walker the transitory mayor of New York City may not always be worthy of commendation but he should be given credit for banning the flights of planes over parks stadiums and other places where people are congregated in great numbers It's a course which should be followed the land over

A New Bedford wire tells about how former President Coolidge caught twelve fine trout there while he smoked cigarets in a long holder It may be just as well that Mr Coolidge is out of politics for good That story would lose a candidate the support of both the anti tobacconists and the cigaret smokers

We never can tell what fortune or ill fortune awaits us or when or where we will meet either Baron Friedrich Karl von Warthausen the around the world flier who never received so much as a scratch as the result of an air flight was seriously injured in a taxi accident in El Paso Texas last week

Dr Thomas Darlington former health commissioner of New York City told a gathering there that the sensible dress for men during the heated season would be a union suit of cotton hose light shoes trousers held up by suspenders that circulation might not be impaired as it is by a belt a thin coat and a collarless shirt Dr Darlington may never be able to persuade men generally to adopt the proposed raiment but if he does mankind will arise and call him blessed

Weather Extremes.

BY ROYAL S COPELAND M D

Man's injustice to his surroundings is on of the remarkable facts about him Palms thrive in the tropics and die in colder climes Man thrives everywhere

The body is made to adapt itself to conditions as they are One of the surest tests of this is that it can withstand sudden and violent changes in the weather He may be in the clutch of terrible heat and not suffer much if there is a sudden drop of fifty or sixty degrees The opposite states of weather will cause him no serious inconvenience

Of course we fret over extremes of heat and cold We complain about the sudden changes But in the last analysis these bodies of ours adapt themselves to whatever comes

The skin and its wonderful equipment of blood vessels are the things that save us The covering of the body is much on guard as to guard the interior with its vital organs

Among other functions the skin acts as a regulator It is more accurate and unfailing in its operations than the most perfect thermostat ever made

I am assuming that the man under discussion is a normal person that he has a perfect body and lives a proper life He cannot hope to be sent safely undisturbed by violent weather changes for instance if he has not the blood vessels and nerves of his every part are not in prime condition

When we consider the reasons why correct living is essential to safety we readily think of the part the skin plays in promoting man's welfare Of course I have in mind not only the very outside the part we see and feel but also the wholesomeness and structure of the body covering

To maintain the successful operation of the skin it must be well nourished That is it must have its full share of the food and drink we take to maintain health It must be cleansed and fed by an abundance of pure blood

Besides what it gets from within it must be well cared for from without It must be scrubbed and bathed and never be permitted to remain unwashed and clogged We can not hope to avoid contact with dirt but by regular and thorough bathing we must keep the skin in first class condition

The skin requires air and light particularly sunlight The local circulation is improved by these agents of good As the skin is bettered by it in the whole body receives because of the pleasant glow it gives

A friend of mine a famous doctor wears very light colored underwear clothing the whole year winter as well as summer He realizes the importance of light and the necessity of the skin to have it

Perhaps we would go that far but there is no doubt opportunity should be given these bodies of ours to drink in the goodness found in air and light There can be no doubt I think that the modern lamps emitting ultra violet rays have a real place in benefiting the skin and through it the whole body But of course sunlight is free to all and while a bit on certain days some seasons of the year should be utilized whenever possible

The more active the skin is the clearer it is and the more it is exposed to air and light the better prepared we are to face changes of weather with confidence With well nourished and well kept skin the less we will shiver in the cold and the further we will feel in extreme heat by other

WATCH OUT IN HOT WEATHER

With weather conditions as variable as they have been this summer with the mercury sliding up and down the thermometer city dwellers must be prepared for sudden changes from fairly cool pleasant days to brief periods of extreme heat When the temperature rises reports of heat prostrations increase

Consequently men women and children should be informed that there are two distinct conditions which may develop from extreme exposure during hot weather One is heatstroke commonly known as sunstroke and the other is heat exhaustion Since the emergency treatment for the two conditions is different it is essential to know the symptoms of each

Sunstroke produces a high fever The skin of the patient becomes hot and dry Beware the first warning which is the cessation of sweating Sunstroke usually attacks a person engaged in some active occupation and if not relieved will bring about unconsciousness and death Immediate reduction of the body temperature is imperative by means of a cold bath or the rubbing of the patient's entire body with cold water supplemented by the drinking of cool water if the patient is able to do so To prevent sunstroke a person should drink plenty of water cool but preferably not ice cold If the normal process of perspiring ceases this should be taken as a signal to stop any physical activity drink more water and if possible take a bath in water cooler than the body temperature

Heat exhaustion is a condition of fatigue induced by loss of sleep and appetite as well as the use of alcoholic drinks during hot weather In such cases the temperature is normal or subnormal and the cold water treatment should be avoided Application of external heat to the body but too often or too much to drink and rest in bed are the remedies for this form of exhaustion

Aside from these more serious forms of illness digestive disorders are frequently caused by continued hot weather Hence the wise person will avoid excesses and use sort in eating drinking or exercise Yet he should be prepared to recognize symptoms of sunstroke or heat exhaustion in himself and others and to give relief accordingly —Detroit Free Press

A HIGHWAY TO ALASKA

A large number of American tourists are motoring into Canada this summer and it might be supposed that those who enter British Columbia would drive far enough northward to visit Alaska which has many attractions for the traveler But they will not Between Seattle and Fairbanks a distance of 2000 miles as the motorists would drive there is a gap of 700 miles that has not been filled with good roads

To fill the gap is the purpose of the International Highway association of Fairbanks In short Alaska is launching a good roads program

Seven million dollars purchased Alaska from Russia $7 000 000 more will make Alaska one of the United States is the association's slogan

A few millions devoted to road building would unquestionably bring to Alaska a great many summer visitors from the states that it does not get now

Canada however will have to come forward with some of these necessary millions if United States and Canadian tourists are to drive their car to Fairbanks and other Alaskan cities along the route where the tremendous peaks of the coast and Alaskan range are revealed in constant succession to the traveler Alaska approaches road building from an unusual angle Most of its primary roads must be built outside of its own domain It is expected that when the main highway connecting the United States with its possessions is completed the construction of roads to the coastal towns and the interior of Alaska will follow And it is confidently believed that Alaska's twenty four hour summer days its scenery and game resources will make it the summer playground of America —St Louis Globe Democrat

Home of Columbus.

BY TEMPLE MANNING

Not more than the well known stone's throw from the Piazza de Ferrari in Genoa which I told about in a previous article is the Vico di Morcento a little narrow street which also answers to the name of Carrozo Diritto And bearing the number thirty seven is a narrow rough looking house This was the boyhood home of Christopher Columbus Here it was that the discoverer of America first dreamed of sailing away across that distant horizon at which he used to gaze so dreamily from the vantage of the Genoa waterfront

I said before that Genoa is a strange and fascinating combination of the old and the new The Vico di Morcento is among the oldest of the old

Just look up the street or try to look up the street It is virtually impossible for the cobbled alley—it can scarcely be called more than that—meanders to the right and left twisting and turning and offering scarcely a hundred feet of straightaway road

The houses are narrow and high made of rough stone On the ground floor are small dingy shopping stores and offices Windows on the upper floors are shuttered with some of the shutters opened halfway to afford some means of hanging out the days washing Street lights—old fashioned square shaped affairs—hang from brackets fastened in the walls of the buildings here and there

It is a dirty unattractive street but somewhat fascinating in its squalor It is a tenement house street—the home of some of Genoa's lower classes

Number 37 where Columbus lived is a narrow building originally five stories high It remained for years unknown and its fame unsung but when it was definitely placed as Columbus's home the government took it over and is preserving it as a monument The tenements on either side were torn down and then it was found that without this flank support there was grave doubt as to whether the construction was sufficiently strong to support the five floors So the three upper floors were torn down and the two lower floors roofed over And that is how the building stands today in the center of a little fenced in plot of ground

Just a few feet to the west of the house stand the remains of the Old gate of San Andrea a part of what was formerly the city wall Domenico and Susanna Columbus Christopher's father and mother moved into the house on the Vico di Morcenton when Domenico under appointment from the doge was serving as custodian of another near by gate the Porta dell Olivella which has since been demolished

The Columbus home has been changed but little since the days when Christopher was a boy All the walls inside have been chipped for that was the only way the accumulated grit of the years the building was used as a tenement could be removed On the outside is a plaque bearing the inscription in Latin

No house is more worthy of fame for here lived the parents of Christopher Columbus and here he passed his youthful days

Inside the house is bare save for a marble slab set into one of the walls and bearing in bas relief the Stana Maria flagship of Columbus's fleet and a small statue of the discoverer as a boy when he lived in the little back street of Genoa

But despite its unpretentiousness its lack of decoration the absence of momentoes the Columbus house is a shrine in Genoa —Copyright Newspaper Feature Service Inc

Something we don't have to worry about today but which may have to be met some day is the fact that the people of northern and western Europe have so few children Population is already declining in England Germany France Belgium Sweden and Norway On the other hand population in the southern countries of Europe is increasing This fact may some day give rise to a great war and change the course of history The too thickly populated sections may become unbearable to the inhabitants of part of Europe and they will burst out of bounds and occupy the more favored sections And if the birthrate of the whole of Europe too greatly declines the day will come when an invasion of the swarming races of Asia and the Far East will be at hand

VISITS 14 STATES

Ada Youth Returns From 50-Day Jaunt of 10,200 miles

KENTON, July 15—Hitch-hiking 10,200 miles over 14 states from Rhode Island to Montana, witnessing four national and international sport events, and seeing many of America's wonder and beauty spots during a 50-day period this summer is the interesting experience of Walter Routson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Routson, of Ada.

Routson left Ada for the east May 17, after his graduation from Ada high school May 16, and returned from the west this week. He touched all the principal cities of the east, saw the Intercollegiate Rowing Regatta at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., the I. C. A. A. A. A. track and field event at Philadelphia, and later, the National A. A. U. track and field championship meet at Denver.

According to the guards, Routson is the only boy who bummed through the famous Holland tunnels under the Hudson. They are not open to pedestrians but the Boy Scout uniform let him through he stated.

GET LICENSES

Morrow County Couples United in Week-end Weddings

MARYSVILLE, July 15 — Two teachers in the New California, Jerome township schools, were one of two couples to secure marriage licenses in the Union county probate court for week-end weddings. They were Murrin Hue Mitchell, 33, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell, and Miss Emma G. Vigor, 33, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Vigor. The Rev. W. C. McCleary officiated.

The other license was issued to Harry John Graves, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Verl Graves, Marysville, and Miss Edna Raush, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Raush, Union township. Consent of both parents of each couple was given for the marriage which was performed by the Rev. A. W. Zell of the Trinity Lutheran church.

Union County Guardians File Accounting in Court

MARYSVILLE, July 15—One of two accounts of guardians just filed in the Union county probate court was that of J. Wayne Zimmerman, guardian of Lindsley Ruth Glass. This, the fourth and final account shows a balance of $40.34 due Ruth, Marysville, and $505.11 due Lindsley, Richwood.

The other account was that of the state of Grover R. David, of which J. Wayne Zimmerman is also guardian. It, the third and final, shows a balance of $5,205.19 due the estate.

...n car ahead and turned completely over. The three boys received slight injuries and were removed from the scene before an ambulance arrived.

COUNTY GRANGERS MEET FOR PICNIC

State Master Is Speaker at Grange Outing at Lake Idlewild

KENTON, July 15—W. E. Kirk, Port Clinton, state master of the Ohio State grange, was the principal speaker before annual outing of the Hardin County Pomona Grange, held at Lake Idlewild Park, Saturday. More than 300 grangers and their families attended.

During his address, Mr. Kirk spoke of the importance of granges in rural life.

Music was furnished by Washington and Greenwood granges. Kenneth Stoll, of Dola, Pomona grange master, presided. Horseshoe pitching contests were in charge of William Strahm.

COURT OF APPEALS REPORTS ON CASES

Nine Decisions on Crawford County Trials Received by Clerk

BUCYRUS, July 15—Nine decisions on Crawford county cases carried to the higher court, two of them reversals and one final ruling, were received Saturday by Clerk of Court Edith Forrest from the court of appeals, Lima. All of the decisions are the result of "Crawford county day" at Lima several weeks ago when practically every attorney from Bucyrus, Galion and Crestline, spent two days before the higher court in appealing a large number of cases.

Cases decided by the court of appeals are: Pennsylvania R. R. against Clarence Pontius in which the court of appeals ruled that the railroad company is not liable for damages for which it was sued by Pontius and for which Pontius recovered at the time of the trial in the local court.

Henry Hageman against his son, William M. Hageman, arising out of an automobile accident in which the elder Hageman received a broken leg and later sued his son, driver of the car for damages. The local court directed a verdict in favor of the son, holding that he was not liable for the accident. The court of appeals found error in the directed verdict and ordered the case back to Crawford county for re-trial with a jury.

H. N. Oberlander and George Rittel, co-bondsmen for Wilbur Hand, fugitive from justice, retain their judgment against Louis Wittenberg and others as the result of the court's decision, relative to a cognovit note.

William E. Matthews against Sutton State Bank arising out of a suit on a promissory note. No error was found, judgment affirmed at costs of the plaintiff. The case was remanded for execution.

Edward Leapley against Hazel Leapley, no error found in divorce action. Remanded back for execution. Edward Leapley found error on the ground that he was not notified at time when he was in jail relative to his wife's divorce case against him coming before the court. The higher court found he had been served with a summons and copy of the petition but employed no attorney.

Edward Greenich against Harold B. Metcalf, auto accident case. No error found and remanded back to Crawford county for execution.

North Electric Mfg. Co. against J. J. Shelley, judgment without penalty. The court also sent a written decision in this case which is on file at the local court.

No error was found by the court in the case of the O., C., C. and St. L. R. R against A. S. Leuthold as administrator of the Murphy estate arising out of a train accident

YOUTH RECOVERING

Hardin County Residents Reported Improving from Accidents

KENTON, July 15—Several persons, victims of accidents in and near this city, were reported as recovering today.

Ralph Marshall, 21, Dunkirk, sustained serious scalp wounds and other injuries when the machine he was driving and a car driven by Robert Brown, Urbana garage man, crashed near Twin Bridges, west of here.

Occupants of the Brown car escaped with minor injuries as both cars were ditched. Marshall's injuries were dressed by an Ada physician and he was taken to his home by Gail Poling, Ada.

A deep cut on the right arm was received by Eugene Sheldon of this city, when he came in contact with a machine on which he was working at the Ohio Machine & Tool Company plant.

John Spradley and a small daughter, of west of here, are recovering from cuts and bruises received when their machine and one occupied by James Furlong of near McGuffey, collided. The Spradley car was ditched.

District Briefs

TIRO—W. W. Davis, clerk of Auburn township, was called to Bucyrus, where he submitted the township records for the regular examination conducted every two years by the state department of supervision and inspection of public offices. Harold H. Hastings, of Marion, is the examiner in charge.

MT. GILEAD HAS SUNDAY MOVIES

First Show Attracts Large Crowd from Nearby Towns

MT. GILEAD, July 15—The largest crowd that has been in the local Kayree theater since the first of January attended the first Sunday show that was presented here last night, according to Griffith Granger, manager of the theatre.

According to the agreement reached at the meeting between the ministers and the Kayree hostd the theater was not opened until after the opening of the Sunday evening church services. The doors of the theater were opened for the first time on Sunday at 7:45 o'clock and the show started immediately at 8 o'clock. Part of the show was run the second time in order to accommodate those that came in too late to see the first part of the opening show.

According to Mr. Granger nearly all the people that attended were from neighboring towns such as Cardington, Marengo, Johnsville and Chesterville and only a very few of the local people attended.

No legal steps were taken at the theater by any of the local people last night to keep the management from opening the theater and presenting the show.

More Than Words Can Tell

FOLKS relate their experience with this mortician or that. Folks present at funerals observe the attending mortician's quality of service and equipment; his methods and results furnished. And from there a mortician's prestige and clientele grows, or goes the other way, and his value judged. Our prominence in this community sufficiently expresses the superior funeral service we give: that speaks volumes which no other way of impressing can convey. Further comment from us becomes unnecessary—save to remind you, for you to keep in mind and for you to know whom to choose.

Vermillion Wendell Wedding Yesterday

A wedding of importance in the Oakland Evangelical church was that of Miss Opal Vermillion, Davids at., to the Rev. Clyde R. Wendell, Davids st., which took place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the presence of many friends and relatives. The Rev. H. J. Williamson, pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. C. W. Ruhlman, of Columbus, read the single ring service.

The bride was in pink georgette over satin, with a bridal bouquet of white rosebuds. Her bridesmaid, Miss Irene Ruhlman, was in old rose taffeta and carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds. The Rev. Clarke Davis, of La Rue, O., attended the bridegroom. Mrs L. J. Black played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" for the processional.

Mrs Wendell is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. F. B Vermillion, 1095 Davids st., and the Rev. Mr Wendell is the son of Mr and Mrs. Ellis Wendell, 839 Davids st. He was a student at Asbury college, Kentucky, last year and expects to continue his studies there this year. At present he is employed with the Pollak Steel Co. Mrs. Wendell is a supervisor in the Ohio Associated Telephone Co offices here.

Out-of-town guests were W. G Bibler and family, of Lancaster, Charles Keck, of Akron, Mrs Sarah Knowles of Cleveland and the Rev C. W Ruhlman and family, of Columbus.

After a trip through the eastern states the Rev. Mr and Mrs. Wendell will be at home after July 22 at 1095 Davids st.

Loss of Her Shoe Prevents Suicide

EVANSVILLE, Ind.—The female vanity of Dorothy Miller, of Evansville probably saved her from suicide by drowning in the Ohio river near here. As she prepared to throw herself into the water, a shoe came off. The pause she made to adjust it was just delay enough for James Chenault to gain her side and persuade her to remain in this world.

Boston and Maine Add 1,000 New Cars

BOSTON—An addition of 1,000 new freight cars of the box type with steel frame work and with a 40-ton capacity will be added to the equipment of the Boston and Maine Railroad to be ready for the heavy traffic period this fall.

Delivery of 500 new 70 ton steel hopper cars has been completed and with the added 1,000 new 40-ton cars, the Boston and Maine's ownership will be 13,000 cars, according to an announcement.

Dainty Short Frocks Now Being Worn by Women Demand Lovely Knees

Bulging Knees, Peeping from Beneath the Hem Line, Mars One's Appearance, Says Expert, Suggesting Limb Exercise and Massage

Something must be done about the knees of the feminine world. What with skirts getting shorter (if possible) despite the reports from fashion centers that skirts are coming down, knees are displayed as freely as faces and elbows. Perhaps it is not because knees are less lovely, but because they have not been displayed long enough to be taken for granted, that their bad points are so noticeable.

The hem line that reaches only to the knees is indeed an awkward length, unless the wearer of such a frock possesses unusually lovely and shapely knees. Therefore, the skirt that reaches just a trifle below the knees is far more attractive for the girl whose knees are only average. If the knees appear too fat or too thin, moderately long skirts should be worn until such time as the corrective treatments given below have perhaps changed these members into shapely and more youthful contour.

Exercise, followed by the use of an oil massage, is by far the best treatment for all types of knees. For overdeveloped and bulgy knees, high kicking proves extremely beneficial. Because of the bending of the knees and the action of the upper thigh muscles, this type of kicking works on all the important muscles, thus gradually wearing away the superfluous flesh.

If the knees appear too thin and bony, however, extending the leg straight out in front of the body then swing the lower limb back and forth, keeping the action in the knee. This will build up and strengthen the all-important muscles, at the same time giving the knees a more youthful contour.

Camphorated oil is a splendid reducing medium and will prove effectual when used immediately after exercising. This oil should be slightly heated, making penetration more complete; then, using an upward movement, press the fingers firmly against the flesh and run them upward well past the joint of the knee. If by chance your sudden burst of exercise has caused the leg muscles to feel stiff and tired this oil will soothe and ease them for the next exercising routine, as well as serve to counteract the soreness.

For the underdeveloped or bony knees warm olive oil should be used in the same way as the camphorated oil, and it will serve to soothe the muscles and nerves at the same time nourishing and building up the tissues and muscles around the knees into beautiful feminine contours.

If you wish to hasten the reducing or building process 50 kicks each night and morning, followed by a five-minute massage for each knee, will bring wonderful results at the end of a month or six months.

The oil applied in the morning may be massaged into the pores; then, if you are going out, simply remove the excess oil with a soft gauze or cleansing tissue. The evening application, however, should remain on over night.

A pair of pajamas will prevent the oil from soiling the bed linen.

BAND WILL PLAY

Upper Sandusky Musicians on Program at Arlington

UPPER SANDUSKY, July 15—The School band of Upper Sandusky will give a concert next Sunday night at the Union Church services in Arlington. The program will be given on the church lawn and will consist of march, Men of Ohio; Filimore overture, Dawn in the Forest," Jarrett; "Sabbath Chimes," Forest-Alford; march, Stars and Stripes Forever," Sousa; waltz, "Village Chimes," Bennett; overture, "Energy," Bennett; "Fairy Phantom," Holmes; march, "El Capital" Sousa.

Children Enjoy Picnic on Nevada Church Lawn

NEVADA, July 15—About 45 children of the Lutheran Sunday school who took part in the Children's Day program enjoyed a party on the church lawn from 5:30 to 8:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The committee in charge, composed of Misses Pauline Berkley, Mildred Schrull, Avanelle Wilcox and Velma McLaughlin, with the aid of the superintendent and teachers of the primary division planned a most enjoyable afternoon for the children. Refreshments were served.

They Called Her Scrawny But Not for Long

Is your face drawn and pinched? your skin flabby? Are your cheeks sunken with great hollows under the eyes? Does your figure show unbecoming angles instead of the softly rounded slimness of youth?

All these conditions rob you of attractiveness and make you look old. But worst of all, these may actually be the symptoms of simple anaemia—that dread ailment so often suffered by women.

There's nothing so good as McCoy's Tablets to put on firm flesh, round out face and figure and build up rich, red blood.

So if you need a few poundr of flesh to round out the hollows, if you want to get back oldtime energy and health, get a box of McCoy's Tablets today. Just a short treatment will make you look and feel like a new person.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.—Adv.

City Inspector Cites Plan to Combat Undulant Fever

...e American Medical ... Asso...tion told in a ... and One, that un... rapidly becoming a ... in United States ... on undulant fever ... of the city depart... and milk inspection ... disease is usually traceable to the consumption of raw milk. Comple e pasteurization of all milk used here would almo t insure Marion ans against this disease he said

Origin Traced

The germ has been found almost identical with that of the Malta fever which was first known to exist in the region of the Mediterranean sea Dr Gruber says. It was later found that all bovines could harbor the germ and transmit it to humans However, health authorities say the germ is susceptible to heat and complete pasteurization which involves heating and sudden cooling the milk will destroy the germs

Undulant fever has been seen but once in Marion Dr Gruber said referring to a case reported here last year In some states a large percentage of the cows furnishing milk supply for cities here been found to be infected with the disease

Describes Action

In referring to a man affected with the fever Dr Gruber said the temperature rose and fell alternately mounting to about the same heights each day at approximately the same time Perspiration is one of characteristics of the disease which as yet has no practical cure Clothes of those affected are usually wringing wet he said

"I knew a man who caught the disease At the time he weighed 240 pounds Six months after he was sufficiently recovered to be about he had wasted away to 120 pounds" Dr Gruber said

The disease as most commonly known to Dr Gruber is with animals Humans are becoming more and more susceptible as health reports indicate, Dr Gruber said

HOLD EVERYTHING—HERE COME THE ELEPHANTS

Five herds of elephants will be worked by Miss Irene Ledgett said to be the peer of all women elephant trainers (when the Sells Floto circus comes here next Friday) Miss Ledgett makes these big brutes step in to a routine that a few years ago was considered impossible and offers everything from a Charleston contest to a jungle tango

Sells Floto's program is absolutely new from start to finish and includes Tom Mix and his horse Tony Cliff Aeros the human cannonball who is shot from a huge cannon Poodles Hanaford and family the Clarkonians the Flying Thrillers, Miss Mabel Pelley the girl gymnast, Jules Jacot and others.

On the Streets of Marion

WITH THE STAR STAFF

Seen at Cystal Lake

CRYSTAL LAKE PARK presents a multitude of personalities on days of these hot days A heterogeneous throng gathers there for many reasons

No one enjoys the water more than the youngsters They have an instinctive feeling that they would like to get out in the water to play Once bedecked in bathing suits they cavort merrily towards the waters edge Here they are doubtful Finally they dip a timid toe into the water and perhaps sit down with their feet well submerged

Then someone tempts them to come on out They shake a vigorous head and if anything move back a few inches Once taken out ducked and dipped in spite of protesting wails the youngsters learn a few strokes

An older friend or relative comes out to watch the bathers and greets one of them If it is a small boy he swells with the pride of his accomplishments and invites the onlooker to watch me Usually he will bite off a little more than he can chew in his attempt to demonstrate and promptly gets a good ducking Sometimes he will need assistance to return him spluttering and with a crushed spirit, to the land where he is content to spend the rest of the day

A GROUP of girls comes from the bath house laughing and chatting They arrive at the concrete beach their suits range from a three year old hand me down to the latest autumn fashions Some of them prefer to be onlookers for some time evidently thinking about more than swimming They laugh at imaginary and inane jokes smirk and possibly indulge in a harmless flirtation There are plenty of the opposite sex who have apparently come for the same purpose and winks and smiles fly promiscuously—but not for all of them Some of the middle aged boys and girls go to swim and thoroughly enjoy the dip Often the wearer of the most daring costume is not at self conscious or as set on attracting attention as some of the more modestly clothed companions

A young man of some odd 20 years nearly bursts on of his lungs to show an imaginary lover how far he can dive under water without coming up for air We see a hint of swagger in his return circle which is a beautiful overhand action He also dives well much to his own satisfaction A girl smiles at him, and the performance is repeated

A MAN of perhaps five years the senior of our hero appears on the scene wearing the insignia of a lifesaver He is not the much discussed life guard but has qualified himself to do this kind of work He makes a beautiful dive and is gone from sight for fully a minute Finally he comes up far out and usually to one side where I last expected All of this is done with manly indifference but we secretly guess that he would not put on this exhibition if the lunks and lake were barren of onlookers and admirers

A "tired business man" comes for a dip He mechanically sizes up the situation and recalling boyhood prowess sets out for a distant point. About half way there he looks up as if he thought he had arrived

"Humm well it must be farther than it was three years ago, he muses and presses on A few feet farther he stops luckily at a depth here he can reach bottom on tiptoe He stands here gasping for breath for several minutes before he cautiously wades back He already gets a taste of the soreness he is to experience on the morrow

About to depart, we idly wonder how the girl on yon resting place can preserve a perfect makeup in spite of her frequent dips and dives

Pete Shows Fight

PETE CURTIS doesn't like St. Bernard dogs and he makes no bones about showing his disfavor.

The other day Pete who by the way, is the C E Curtis Co parrot, was sitting on the railing along the walk, and his owners were seated in the company offices.

Suddenly a commotion to wake the drowsing owners from their comfortable chairs brought them and all the neighbors to their doors.

There was Pete, chasing a neighboring St. Bernard dog for all his life was worth, screaming to the top of his lusty lungs with feathers spread for a time Pete chased afoot and then took to wing to continue his attack

It is a tradition at the Curtis funeral home that cats are a pet aversion of Petes but this is the first time that he has ever attacked a dog Children are great friends of Pete and he allows them to ruffle the feathers on his head and stroke his brilliant coat

ELEVEN MEN HELD IN TROY SHOOTING

First Degree Murder Charge Expected Following Labor Clash

TROY O July 15—Eleven men are being held in the Miami county jail here in connection with the fatal shooting of Frank Mixler Jr, 20 of Dayton during a clash of employees and former workers of the Gem City Stove Foundry in the Nation Hill way at Brandt road here Saturday afternoon

County authorities after questioning the men in custody indicated that one of them will be charged with first degree murder

According to Sheriff Frank Mathews this man had admitted that he fired the fatal shot in the pitched battle which took place between the foundry employes and alleged striking workers sympathizers

Conflicting versions are told county authorities let it be known as to how the battle started A number of the foundry employes were severely beaten it was said

Deputy Sheriff Charles Green who has been questioning the prisoners declared the fight must have lasted 20 minutes and tied up traffic on the road motorists fearing to pass while the score of men were wielding lead pipes clubs and guns in the struggle

WELSH SINGER DIES

THE HAGUE July 15—David Davies St Wales greatest singer, died yesterday at Pontypool

after the show and trying to keep my eyes open long enough to finish at least a sen ence and parts on board trains, when they do not rock so a person cannot write fit to read, but mostly between scenes, on corners of dressing room tables, in a paradise of grease paint and hot lights and hard work—things that are not the same anywhere outside of a theater I don't suppose anybody would understand what I mean that had not been born like me with the fever of the theater in her blood but when a person has been born that way such things do make a paradise in spite of every drawback and disappointment

What I am trying to tell you Tabby is that I am very happy now specially now I am beginning to give fair to middling performances much happier than I ever remember being before Yes I mean that

I used to think I was happy in those days but now that I am able to look back calmly at that time I can see I was only having glimpses of real happiness so to speak just enough to keep me excited and craving for more I expect that is one great mistake people make women especially taking it for granted that just being in love is all there is to happiness Of course you and I know it isn't but a person has got to fall out of love to find out the truth that love isn't enough to make a full life

Love it seems to me needs a lot of extras to come true and be all people expect it to be You have got to be sure you are worth being loved and you can't be that if you are nothing in the world but just a person in love and you have got to be sure the one you love is worth being loved too and——

Oh I don't know Tabby—I guess a bush league actress has a lot to learn about expressing herself before she can set up to be a philosopher and get our body to take her seriously But you are such an understanding person, I know you will understand I am just talking to get things off me mind and show you I am quite cured now of that old trouble and happy because I am able to discuss such things without going all to pieces with feeling sorry for myself

But the best part of it all is the way I feel about it at least that I owe it all to you I mean this happy feeling that has come over me of being somebody all by myself and not just another woman going to waste because she has been foolish with her life and had a disappointment I owe it to you because if it hadn't been for you—well I don't know what would have become of me

I don't know if I can make it sound sensible but what I am trying to say is I had to have you to run away because I wanted to do something that would make you think you had not been wasting friendship on a shiftless baggage I know it sounds as if I attached an awful lot of importance to being a leading woman in a No 3 road company, but the way I look at it I am only starting But I expect you know better than I do what I am making such a hash of saying

Please do write to me Tabby, and tell me everything you think would interest me—everything about yourself would I don't have to tell you that I am inclosing a route card showing all our bookings for the next eight weeks so you will know where to write I think you were very wise to sublet the apartment and move to a good hotel you would have been too lonesome there all by yourself and besides it was not good enough for you after there was no reason any more for you to keep under cover I am sure you are more comfortable and contented where you are and I hope you are not being silly and letting the funny views you take of divorce keep you from seeing something of your old friends now

And yet do you know Tabby? to save myself I just can't seem to see you when I am thinking about you and I do think about you an awful lot except in that little apartment I don't know why it is but that little time we spent there together seems real when I look back at it much realer than that longer time at Benelli's which seems more or less a dream to me

I suppose it must be because I did not begin to do much thinking about things before we moved or feel that I was a real person myself instead of a sort of shadow woman living in a jumbled sort of sad dream But I expect friendship is more real than love between people Tabby it is so much more rare And now that I have got those words down on paper and read them over and believe them I can see what nothing would ever have made me believe before that friendship is much more beautiful

If its predecessor had both provoked and baffled intuition with the things it left unsaid this second letter opened to guesswork a number of new blind alleys And Tabor for some time continued uncertain to accept its expressions as altogether one thing or the other the spontaneous confidences of a heart curiously honest or the finesses of a mind uncommonly clever in the business of dissembling its cleverness

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affection

Tells Dicky of Subtle Threat to Tell of Broken Rose Bowl Episode

"OF course we both know Edith would never have mentioned it."

I was furious at Dicky's complacent tone as he added his defense of Edith to his quick apology for the insulting question he had put to me On the instant my resentment against bringing in Edith vanished and I spoke quickly lest they should reappear and hamper me

"I'm sorry but I don't know that I said 'And you need not have apologized for your question' I should not have told you of this incident except for Edith's witnessing it It was too terrible to risk your possible displeasure—and—misunderstanding But she gave me no alternative when I refused her proposal to have Mr Venner replace that 10-cent rose bowl with a costly one"

Dicky's face was dark with anger when I had finished But he was also bewildered

What the devil is all this farrago he shouted and method only I retailed every word of our words encounter with Edith over the replacing of the rose bowl

When I had finished I felt myself trembling with resentment not only against Edith for forcing me into such a situation but also against myself for yielding to the impulse to retell her part in the affair to Dicky It was a petty act against all my standards and my regret was as keen as was my fear that I was in for an explosive scene with Dicky No doubt he would humiliate Edith I told myself dreadfully and braced myself to listen to his strictures with as much composure as I could command

But I might have known that Dicky would do the unexpected thing

Well I'll be—grillroom! he commented and there was disgust as well as wrath in his tone That's about as heap a trick as I ever heard of If I say she meant it all as a joke—only—I've noticed lately that the old girl isn't averse to pulling something like that occasionally on her own account She's quite the accidental gold digger But this—why confound her—what she handed you was plain blackmail—pull that kind of fixing little trick as I plan if or I'll tell your husband that you're no holding hands with another man But I love to slip it to you old dear You sure checkmated Edith Any in the only way possible And I'll hand her a jolt the next time I——

Oh but you mustn't I said in a panic Don't you see now it's all on the plane of a jest

I get you he returned promptly and we'll keep it that way unless I'm herself makes an ascension If she does let me know I'll settle her Now I must get back to the bridge game Coming?

Not just yet I told him and indeed I wanted time to be alone with the pleasant and surprising sensation which had just come to me He had championed me—me—not Edith—and whatever annoyance was his at the incident of the broken rose bowl was directed toward her not me Absurdly I hugged the knowledge, putting aside the query of why it meant so much to me, and was childishly gratified Later in the evening when Dicky casually asked Nel to take Edith home instead of escorting her himself

She went away laughing but I guessed she was raging inside I conjectured also that she would not rest until in some way she avenged the slight But for the present at least she no longer counted in my scheme of things

That comforting knowledge helped Nel me courage during the trying days which followed There is nothing so nerve-racking as waiting, for some threatened menace to materialize and in our case was added the tension of nine highly strung people thrown together under virtual quarantine Dicky and Phillip went to their offices daily but the rest of us did not leave our apartments except to get the roof for air and exercise and the strain of waiting and watching was so unperceptible especially in the case of our four young people thrown into almost constant companionship

Lenore Olive did not come to me for the interview she had asked and I did not remind her of it for I was well content for to dismiss with her the hair thin announcement of Mary and Prince Georges But I lost no time in getting hold of Nel With the aid of Lillian who kept the other members of the International quartet so engaged that they did not miss him and of Harry who brought him to the roof where I waited him I was able to talk to him at an early hour of the day following the announcement dinner His first words when Mr Underwood had left me that I had done a wise thing

I am so glad to see you,' he said "My father is—has——

He stopped and put his head in his hands Patently he reached the end of his self control

Jubilee's Pardner

...

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

TODAY was Mouday, and I let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth and had the rope the first thing as soon as I had woke up and got out of bed and then I went down and done my barn work and came in the house prancing and glad that it would be another week till Sunday

When my ant got me up to the wash basin Sunday morning and was setting ready to do her stuff and I had got my face all scrooged up for her to commence to begin and my mother had gave Jubilee a plate full in the middle of the kitchen and he was going to it one of the bunch that was gathered around to watch me suffer hollered, 'Rats! Jubilee!' And if there is anything he would rather do than to eat it is to dig out a rat so just as my ant had got the washrag soaped and spread across her right hand and had hold of my hair with her left, Jubilee made a jump between her legs to get outdoors and if my ant had of stood still we would of been all right but she jumped as soon as Jubilee brushed her legs and sort of closed up on him and him going about a million miles an hour and the next anybody knew the old chair the wash basin sets in was knocked out doors and the wash basin was on the floor and I was laying across it on my stummick and my ant was laying across my back and the washrag was between us, and the bunch outside was hugging each other and hollering

My ant got up and unplastered the washrag off her stummick and helped me up, and pointed at the wash basin and gave me one look and I jumped to fill it She was so mad because she could not blame me for it that she was white And then just as she got ready again Younise and Feeble and Maggie came and Feeble kept pointing out new places on my face for my ant to wash and then she got a piece of soap and started to help her and I opened my mouth to tell her what I would do to her if she didn't leave me alone, and then she stuck the soap in my mouth and stepped on my ant's toe which is very painful, and knocked the wash basin over again My ant flung me the towel and yowled at me that it would serve me right if she never washed me again I think so too

Today we played ball and took the cows out and had a couple of swims and acted on Old Man Scanlon's acting pole that he made for us. Feeble is pretty good She can set straddle of the pole and hang onto it in front of her and go over sideways and come up right side up on the other side.

HALLERBACH SCORES WINNING RUN FOR TOLEDO CLUB IN 9TH

Bacon Wallops Two Triples To Feature Olds Motors Tilt Here

BY KARL R. McELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

SEP GOOD, who usually left hands 'em with a fair degree of success, was not so effective at Lincoln park Sunday afternoon taking a 4-to 3 beating at the hands of the Olds Motors from Toledo.

It was clearly a case of robbery that won for the Toledo nine. A ninth inning rally was nipped in the bud by a sensational one handed catch by F. Marsh of Bizor's long liner to deep center. The second instance of bold, daylight robbery came in the preceding frame when McClain grabbed a hot one off Good's bat to end the inning. Two fast double plays also hurt Marion in the fifth and seventh innings.

Scoring honors on the Toledo team were well divided with Fields, V. Marsh, Balmer and Hallerbach crossing the plate. For Marion, Conroy scored two runs and the third was chalked up by Toomire. Bacon, Toomire and Good led the local sluggers with two hits each while Callahan and Hallerbach were the only Toledo players to get more than one. Bacon's slugging performance was his best of the season. In the first two trips to the plate he got triples. The next two times he hit into double plays Good got one double.

Both hurlers failed to set the world afire. Good was exceptionally wild, walking four men while being able to strikeout but two. Hallerbach had four strikeouts and two bases on balls to his pitching credit.

Both teams scored in the first inning. Decker crossed the plate for Toledo with two down on Brumell's double. He was walked by Good. Conroy, who gained first with Baldauf being forced at second, scored on Bacon's three-bagger.

Neither team scored in the second and in the third the Eagles went into the lead with Bacon and Conroy pulling the scoring act. Conroy led off with a single and was driven in by Bacon's triple. Youlkus and Toomire grounded out allowing Bacon to die on third.

Things were quiet in the fourth frame and in the fifth the Motors opened a keg of nails and celebrated on Good's offerings. Seven men faced the local hurler in that inning, getting four hits and two runs. The hits were short Texas leaguers just out of the infield. V. Marsh and Balmer started out with singles. Hallerbach sacrificed and the two runners scored from second and third on F. Marsh's single to center.

Bacon's drive to second was turned into a double play in the last half of the fifth stopping the Eagles short and in the sixth the locals came back to tie up the count at three-all. After Youlkus fanned, Toomire singled to right and scored off Good's double to left.

Three Toledo men go on base in the seventh but failed to score. A double play featuring poor base running by Conroy again held the Eagles scoreless. Neither scored in the eighth.

Hallerbach won his own game in the ninth leading off with a hot grounder over second. He was sacrificed to second by F. Marsh and scored on Decker's fielder's choice. He beat the ball to the plate.

INITIAL SETBACK OF SEASON FOR LOCAL COUNTRY CLUB TEAM

K. M. Bower and Barnett Enter Second Round of Tournament

BY BOB ELLIOTT

THE Marion Country club golf team sustained a crushing 5½-to 5 defeat at the hands of the Lima club team yesterday afternoon on the Lima links. It was the first setback of the season for the local golfers, who had won over the Sandusky team and gained an even decision with the Bucyrus club team.

Fourteen of the 19 Marion players failed to score a point, losing both rounds and the total score for the 18 holes. The Marion players who scored were C. F. La Marche, T. R. Summons, J. W. Barnett, Barrowman and Locke.

Locke Lalred his match with Black and was the only local golfer to gain an even break. H. W. Hune, Marion's No. 1 man, went down to defeat before the superior play of T. D. McLaughlin.

The summaries:

Lima	Pts.	Marion	Pts.
F. McLaughlin	3	H. W. Hune	0

Two Players Go into Third Round

In first and second round matches of the President's cup tournament now being played at the Marion Country club, K. M. Bower and J. W. Barnett advanced to the third round and C. L. Gorton and T. R. Summons entered the second round of play in the cup flight.

Bower defeated J. L. Griesinger, one up and Summons won over Austin, two and one. Gorton went into the second round when Martin defaulted while Owens lost to Barnett, two and one.

In second flight matches J. J. Hune defaulted to Allen. This put Allen in the next round. Keller and Allen won second round matches by defeating R. L. La Marche and Moloney. Moloney fell, four and three and La Marche was eliminated, one up.

Jean De Wolfe Wins Tourney

Miss Jean De Wolfe won the women's handicap tournament at the local country club by defeating Mrs. Dan Evans in the finals Saturday afternoon, six and five. Mrs. Evans was no match for Miss De Wolfe.

FLORIO WINS STATE GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Overcomes Lead To Cop Amateur Cup in Last Nine Holes

CANTON, July 15—Johnny Florio of Columbus Saturday won the Ohio state amateur golf championship from Leo Ransick, of Cincinnati, 4 and 3. The match ended on the 33d hole.

The last nine holes had been started in the afternoon with Ransick 1 up on Florio.

Cards for the last six holes which decided the title were:

Ransick ..... 1 6 4 5 4 5—28
Florio ..... 4 5 3 4 6 4—26

LOUGHRAN-BRADDOCK GO LEADING FEATURE

Tops Busy Week of Fistic Activities in New York

NEW YORK, July 15—Increased activity among the leather pushers will make this week one of the biggest of the summer ustic season in the Metropolitan district.

While the light heavyweight titular battle between Tommy Loughran and Jimmy Braddock at the Yankee stadium Thursday night is the outstanding attraction, considerable interest is being manifested in the debut of Vittorio Campolo, Argentine heavyweight, against Arthur de Kuh, Italian trial horse, at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, Wednesday night.

The Sammy Dorfman-Petey Mack and Joe Glick-Patsy Buffalo bouts will start the ball rolling tonight. Tomorrow night Harry Bhtman, Philadelphia featherweight, clashes with Pete Nebo, Seminole Indian, at the Queensboro stadium.

Angus Snyder of Dodge City, fights Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight, in the semi-final of the Campelo-du Kuh card Wednesday.

On Thursday Benny Bass of Philadelphia, tackles Augie Pisano in Newark, N. J. Kid Chocolate, Cuban flash, takes on Milt Cohen in a warm-up bout at Rockaway, L. I., Friday night.

CLEVELAND FAILS TO STOP PENNANT RUSH OF PHILADELPHIA 9

Yanks Drop Further Behind A's When Uhle Hurls Winning Game

BY LES CONKLIN

NEW YORK, July 15—The world's champion Yankees are trailing the Athletics by exactly 100 points in the American League this morning, which is a long way from home on July 15 in any man's league. The Yanks, who had cut the lead of the Mackmen to 7 1-2 games, encountered a stumbling block yesterday at Detroit and lost, 7 to 3, while the A's were mosing out Cleveland.

George Uhle, who had lost six of his last seven games, struck out 10 New York batters and yielded only six hits. He looked like an also ran, however, until the seventh inning, when his mates knocked George Pipgras off the mound and scored five runs with the aid of errors by Durocher and Dickey.

Zinn Loses

Cleveland held the Athletics at bay until the tenth inning when Jimmy Zinn, relieving Hudlin of the pitching burden, was tagged for three hits and a 5 to 3 defeat. Al Simmons, Connie Mack's celebrated cripple, starred at bat with four healthy hits.

A pitching duel between Garland Braxton of Washington and Al Thomas of the White Sox was broken up in the eighth inning when the Nats scored five runs to grab a 7-to 1 decision.

Jack Russell of the Red Sox rang the bell with a three hit performance as Boston subdued the Browns, 5 to 2. Russell pitched hitless ball for the first six frames.

After outpointing the Cardinals, 7 to 6, on Terry's hit in the eleventh, the Giants dropped the second game 1 to 3. Dexter Bill Walker held the Cards to one hit in seven innings of the nightcap but blew up in the eighth when the champions put on a three-run rally climaxed by Hugh's single.

Reds Run Wild

Injuries crippled Roush and Jackson, two of McGraw's brightest stars, Roush tripped over first base and Jackson was hit by a line drive.

The Cincinnati Reds made whoopee at the expense of Brooklyn, lacing five pitchers for 16 hits and winning in a romp, 12 to 3.

LOCAL TENNIS TEAM LOSES FIRST MATCH

SWEEPING through the two double matches and taking two out of the five single matches, the Findlay tennis team defeated the Vernon Heights Tennis club's team yesterday afternoon on the local courts. Ted Cunningham, Bluffton college star, Bob Wolfinger and Art Yazel won the local's only matches.

Cunningham won over Dick Cole, Findlay ace, 6-4, 6-4 in the feature match of the afternoon. Yazel defeated T. Cunningham, 6-2, 6-1 and Wolfinger took a fast three set match from Allen Moyer, 2-6, 6-3 and 7-5.

The Findlay singles victories went to J. Roberts, who defeated Walter Long and F. K. Frizelle who won over Newt Cunningham. Frizelle won in straight sets, 6-3, 6-0, while Long forced Roberts into an extra set before succumbing, 6-4, 5-7 and 6-4.

The Findlay doubles team swept through their matches to clinch the team victory. Cole and Roberts defeated Art Yazel and Ted Cunningham, 6-4, 5-7 and 6-3. Wolfinger and Marsh Cunningham fell before H. R. Stanfield and Frizelle, 6-4, 6-1.

Yesterday's inter-club matches were the first of the year here while a number of others are being tentatively scheduled by officials of the Vernon Heights club. A return match with the Findlay team will be played on the Findlay courts in the near future.

MORRAL WINS

McIntire Is Tight in Pinches and Agosta Nine Loses

Morral's entrant in the tri-county baseball loop defeated the Agosta nine yesterday at Morral 5 to 1. McIntire did a nice job of hurling for the winners, being especially effective in the pinches.

The Morral team clinched the game in the fourth when three runs were gathered off Konkle.

The score:

Agosta ..... 000 010 00—1
Morral ..... 101 300 00—5

Konkle and Arthur Knle; McIntire and Kuontz.

GERMANS PLAY U. S.

BERLIN, July 15—Having scored two unexpected victories in preliminary rounds, Germany's Davis cup players today looked forward with renewed confidence to the clash with the tennis stars of the United States in the interzone final. By virtue of their triumph over Great Britain here yesterday, the Teutons qualified to meet the Americans for the right to play France in the challenge round.

DISTRICT CHAMPIONS LOSE TO ALL-STARS

Galion Yankees Swamped by Mixed Team in 19-3 Massacre

Eight errors combined with 15 solid hits were the means by which the All Star baseball nine from subdistrict No. 1 of the American Legion defeated the Galion Yankees, champs of the district at Lincoln Park yesterday afternoon, 19 to 3. The Yankees looked like anything but champions and then play must improve a great deal to give them a chance for the district tops.

Skahill held the All Stars in check for the first two innings but the last five frames saw the runs recorded in the following order: 5-1-2-1-7. Fudley, of the Marion Junior Eagles, was the leading hitter of the contest with three hits.

"RIGHT," YOU SAY, "but what is taste?"
Light a Chesterfield, and notice three things: the distinct and pleasing flavor, the fragrance of the smoke, and that certain "something different" which we can only call "character."
Good taste means all three, and all three are blended—and cross-blended, the standard Chesterfield method—into every shred of tobacco. Just one rule governs Chesterfield's making:
"TASTE above everything"

provision giv-

ling the president the right to raise or lower tariff rates 50 per cent "to equalize competitive conditions." Under the present law, the president can act only when the tariff commission finds the actual difference in production costs abroad and at home justify a change.

The new provision, it is contended, would not only transfer much of the tariff-making power to the president, but would put virtually autocratic power in his hands.

While the provision is supported by most high tariff advocates, it is vigorously opposed by Joseph Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' association, one of the most widely known high tariff advocates.

Proposes Substitute

At the same time, Grundy is supporting proposals to substitute the American selling price of a foreign article for the foreign value as a basis of tariff rates.

It is charged that foreign producers are able to evade the full effect of the American tariff under the present system. The action of France and some other countries in denying costs of production and other information to American agents also has contributed to the demands for the change.

Chairman Smoot indicated that he favors the American selling price as an alternative method of assessing tariff duties, as is now provided in the house bill.

Senator Goff, Republican, of West Virginia, declared the threatened foreign warfare over increased tariff rates already had "disappeared in thin air." He said the business men of the world buy where they can to the best advantage. He pointed out the American tariff of 1922 increased import duties and the volume of American sales and purchases in foreign countries increased.

Representative Mansfield, Democrat, of Texas, criticised the proposed 20 per cent. duty on boots and shoes. He said the shoe industry has no foreign competition beyond the importation of children's and women's shoes. He charged the real purpose of the shoe tariff is to raise the price of shoes and curb any possibility of competition by a high tariff wall.

Wife Too Proud of Her Sun-Tan, Hubby Says

LOS ANGELES, July 15—Because Helen Stroul, film actress, took such pride in her sun-tanned legs, she was without a husband today. The husband, in his divorce complaint, said that his wife caused him much embarrassment when she persisted in showing his friends what the sun rays did to her legs. The court decided that such actions caused Stroul to suffer mental anguish.

YOUTHS OVERPOWER GUARD AND ESCAPE

Five Fugitives from Cincinnati Juvenile Ward Sought by Police

CINCINNATI, July 15—Five youths, who overpowered William Hall, watchman at the juvenile detention ward in the courthouse here last night, and then made good an escape, are the objects of a police hunt here today.

Fourteen other youths refused to flee after the quintet had opened up an avenue of freedom.

Bradley Warman, 15, who is unusually large for his age, asked Hall for a drink of water.

The watchman unlocked the cell in which Warman was being held and escorted the boy to the hydrant. Once there, Warman grabbed the guard's neck and called for assistance. Four other youths came to the prisoner's aid.

After locking Hall in a room, the five made good an escape.

The others who fled are Jack Sisson, 17, Edward Dohme, 17, Lawrence Carew, 17, and Thomas Donnon, 16, the latter two of Baltimore, Md. The Baltimore boys were arrested after breaking into a store at Sharonville, near here.

Four-Months-Old Son Dies at Parents' Home

Harry Eugene Spicer, four-months-old son of John and Constance Greenland Spicer, died Sunday at 12:30 p. m. at his home, 575 Mound st. Death came after a two days' illness of interitis. He was born March 6. Surviving with his parents are a brother and sister, Donald Paul and June Spicer. Services were held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home, with the Rev. G. A. Whitlock, pastor of Wesley M. E. church, in charge. Burial was made in Marion cemetery.

Reception by Connecticut Executive Tonight Precedes Conference of Governors

President Hoover Expected To Attend Annual Meeting of State Heads; Elaborate Plans Made for Entertainment of Visitors

GROTON, Conn., July 15—John H. Trumbull, governor of Connecticut, will act as host, this year, to the annual governors' conference. Starting tonight, July 15, Governor Trumbull will have his headquarters in the rambling confines of the Griswold hotel on the long point of land that thrusts itself into the Atlantic ocean where it merges imperceptibly with Long Island Sound.

For a week perhaps the governor, assisted by a long list of Connecticut citizens, will take care of the visiting delegates and give them whatever they may desire in the line of summer pleasure.

The navy department has announced warships aplenty for the governors. The state of Connecticut will send its air fleet here to give the governors all the air transportation they need. Private yachts of many a millionaire will be lying along the harbor and at the disposal of the governors and their families and friends.

Reception Tonight

To start with the governor will hold a reception in the hotel here tonight. On Wednesday evening he will give a formal banquet. After that comes the ball. Governor Trumbull's future son-in-law, John Coolidge, and the governor's daughter, Miss Florence, will be at the ball. The young people know all the governors anyway, and for them the affair will be a sort of reunion.

While the men are laboring at affairs of state, the women of the party will attend social functions that have been arranged. These events will reach a climax at the east estate of the late Morton Plant just down the road from the Griswold. The ladies will spend at least one full afternoon there.

Trips on Sound

Trips on Long Island Sound and out onto the ocean will be numerous. Voyages through the air will be so numerous that it is expected Connecticut will never have seen so many airplanes over its territory. The state maintains a National Guard training field within sight of the hotel, and the aviators will be in camp there all through the conference.

A dozen miles away, at Niantic, the infantry, artillery and cavalry of the state will be encamped, and on July 18, Governor's day, the entire party will go to Niantic to review the citizen-soldiers. Most of the party will fly across from Groton, a trip that means only a "hop, skip and a jump" to a plane.

Then there are the affairs of state. Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor of New York, is down to make the chief address on the first day of the conference, July 16. The subject will be "Crime and Its Control."

William Tudor Gardiner, of Maine, on "Employment of Prisoners," and O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina, on "Youthful Criminals," round this program with speeches. Governor George H. Dern, of Utah, has been elected presiding officer for the first day. Before the first round-table speeches, Governor Trumbull will welcome the visitors, and Henry S. Caulfield, of Missouri, will answer him.

Talk On Taxes

Taxes will form the second day's subject. William H. Blodgett, the state tax commissioner of Connecticut, will tell of his state's pay-as-you-go policy and explain how bills are met and taxes kept down, all to the patent prosperity of the state. Mr. Blodgett will also talk about the relation of state and Federal states, a matter which he has been studying with other state tax commissioners, among whom he is a committee chairman.

Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, has been chosen to preside over the second day's affairs. Governor Harry Flood Byrd, of Virginia, on "The Segregation Plan of Taxation," and Governor George F. Shafer, of North Dakota, on "Gasoline Taxes" are the other speakers that day.

Then comes Thursday with aviation for the topic and with Harry F. Guggenheim, of New York, will talk on "The Importance of the State's Functions in Aviation."

Connecticut expects President Hoover to attend the conference. No announcement has been made yet that he will come, but the state has high hopes of seeing him here for the first time in many, many months.

ROYALTY HONORS AMERICAN FLIERS

Williams and Yancey Guests of Italian King and Family

MARINA, PIZA, July 15—Royal honors were paid today to Roger Q. Williams and Lewis A. Yancy, the daring American aviators who flew from Old Orchard, Me., to Rome with one forced stop at Santande, Spain.

The Americans flew in an Italian seaplane to Marina, Piza, where a royal motor car met them and conveyed them to the king's summer villa at San Rossore.

After their audience with the king the airmen were entertained at luncheon by the royal family. The king was much interested in the flight and asked the airmen to give him a first-hand, personal recounting of their experiences.

The two airmen had previously been received by Pope Pius XI and by Premier Mussolini. Their visit to Rome will end on Wednesday morning.

PHILLIP LOTZ DEAD

DAYTON, July 15—Funeral arrangements for Phillip Lotz, Sr., aged 87, retired, former well-to-do businessman here, who died last night following a lingering illness, are being completed here today. Lotz was a native of Germany and was formerly head of the wholesale paper concern here which bears his name.

Dr. Nichols, at Age of 79, Seeks Return to Office He Held Over 30 Years Ago

Veteran Dentist One of Three G. O. P. Aspirants for Mayor

DR. C. J. NICHOLS, 79, and a Republican aspirant to head the local city government as mayor, has been a political figure here for nearly 45 years. Since 1882 when Dr. Nichols came here to open a dental office he has dipped into politics at more or less regular intervals.

Now he is asking Marion voters to place him at the head of the city government for the second time. In 1895 the venerable dentist was first chosen mayor of the city. He served one term in the office during 1896 and 1897.

As he outlined his platform to a representative of The Star today, the doctor has four planks upon which he will base his hopes of receiving the nomination in August and the election in November. The candidate states that these planks are the only promises he has made to the people.

Four Planks

First, the doctor plans, if elected, to spend part of his time working with the service director to determine what is, and what is not, needed in the way of public improvements.

Second, he promises to restore the city parks to a condition of usefulness for the young and rising generation. This, according to Dr. Nichols, applies especially to Lincoln park in the northern section of the city.

Third, the candidate promises to show no partiality as to the placing and location of public improvements. The section north of Center st. will have equal recognition with the section south, he promises. Fourth, he will observe a strict program of law enforcement.

Keeps Up Active Practice

With the exception of an 18-month period during the administration as governor of the late Frank B. Willis, Dr. Nichols has practiced dentistry here since 1882. During that period he served in the office of the state fire marshal as a Willis appointee. At various times he has been a member of the Marion county Republican central and executive committee.

Nichols Corners, Erie county, New York, was the birthplace of the Republican candidate. He was born in 1850 and was raised on a farm. The little red school house near Nichols Corners provided the doctor's early education. Later he attended Griffiths Institute at Springville, N. Y. Leaving school in 1869 he began the study of dentistry in a dentist's office in Springville.

On June 1, 1874, Dr. Nichols migrated to LaRue. He practiced there and in Richwood until 1882 when he established himself in Marion.

Dr. Nichols is one of three Republican candidates for the mayoralty nomination at the primaries Aug. 13. His opponents are Emery M. Murphy, present incumbent of the office, and Fred J. Haskell, North Prospect st.

Should Dr. Nichols be successful in his quest for the mayorship he will find himself in an entirely different position than he was 35 years ago. When he served in the office the city had a population of about 7,000, the doctor stated today. The police department consisted of five men. The office then paid $700 with fees boosting the compensation about $150.

Account of Ohio River Boat Race To Be Broadcast from Cincinnati Radio Station Tuesday Afternoon

When the Betsy Ann (left) meets the Tom Greene (right) Tuesday in a race up the Ohio river from Cincinnati to New Richmond, the audience of station WLW will be given a running account of the event. Capt. Frederick Way (left) and Capt. Tom Greene of the boat bearing his name, will be the pilots.

Betsy Ann Seeks To Recover Trophy Lost Last Year

RADIO will enter a new field of sports reporting Tuesday afternoon when the Betsy Ann meets the Tom Greene in one of those exciting river races for which Cincinnati and the Ohio river are becoming noted.

This race will be from the Broadway wharf at Cincinnati, up the river to Richmond, a little over 22 miles, and the event is slated to take place some time Tuesday afternoon. The race is contingent only on the depth of the river, since it cannot take place unless the water is over the dam at New Richmond. The exact time of the race has not been decided, although it is expected some time late in the afternoon. Last year the Betsy Ann of the Cincinnati to Pittsburgh Packet Co., pride of the old mail boats of the lower Mississippi, lost a thrilling race with the Chris Greene, flag ship of the Greene Line steamers. To the Chris Greene went the gilded elk horns the Betsy Ann won on the Mississippi.

This year, the Betsy Ann will struggle to recapture the treasured elk horns. If she can defeat the Tom Greene, sister ship of the Chris Greene, the owners of the two boats promise the Betsy Ann a return race with the Chris Greene with the elk horns as the prize.

NEW Victor-Radio with ELECTROLA

At last! The musical instrument the world has waited for! Today the new Victor-Radio is on our floors!

Victor-Radio is a micro-synchronous! A child can tune it. Every element in resonance. Tone quality is absolutely natural—through the entire musical scale.

We have also a big stock of the marvelous all-electric combination—New Victor-Radio with new Electrola. The music-lover's ideal. Volume to fill the largest room—loud or soft at the turn of a knob. The last word in cabinet design.

Never before have we offered such dollar value! Service that never ceases. Terms to suit every pocketbook.

Demonstrations all week

7 outstanding Victor features

1. Micro-synchronous balance: Condensers automatically harmonized through entire range. Instant, micro-exact tuning.
2. Improved Victor circuit...sensitive, selective.
3. Push-pull amplification: utilizing remarkable new RCA power Radiotrons (two) 245.
4. Marvelous new improvement in exclusive Victor electro-dynamic reproducer—perfect realism.
5. Three separate and distinct units—interchangeable.
6. The new Electrola: electrical reproduction of recorded music of power and richness never before obtained.
7. Exquisite, small compact cabinets—fit in with home furnishings. A radio you'll be proud to own!

"You're My Girl!
...and nobody on earth can take you away from me!"

Who dared to defy Thunderbolt-Jim? Ruthlessly ruling men outside the law, he gloried in the intrigue which made him power of the underworld; despised each foe and craftily escaped the police.

Until he saw the girl whose kisses he commanded giving them freely to the youth she really loved. Then his jealousy drove him into a mad rage that made him the victim of the police.

Behind prison bars he plots to avenge the assault to his pride and prestige: to kill the youth who has stolen his girl.

What is this crafty scheme which defies the stone walls of the Death-House?

Does "Thunderbolt" get his man?

Does he go to the chair?

Bulls, Bears Fight As Money Soars

LOAN RATE CLIMBS TO TEN PER CENT

Bankers Hold Little Hope for Easing Up of Financial Situation

COPPERS, MOTORS WEAK

C. & O., Hocking Valley and Union Pacific Lead Rails

BY W. E. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

NEW YORK July 15—The bulls and bears fought it out on the big board today over the question of money supplies. The banks were compelled to call home considerable funds from the call loan market to adjust their reserves with the federal reserve banks and the call rate moved up to 10 per cent. Bankers held out little hope of an easing up in money rates until such time as the bond market thaws out, releasing funds loaned against undigested bonds.

Renewed weakness in the copper stocks and the motors was taken to indicate speculative switching from these stocks to the rails and utilities rates than as a sign of any particular embarrassment in either industry. The motor manufacturers a continuous broadening of the home and foreign markets with first half year profits the largest in their history. Chrysler broke below 70-1543 selling above 72 and General Motors dropped off to 69½, only a point above the low for the year.

The rise in the railroad stocks in the third hour was much more selective than in Saturday's spectacular session. Chesapeake & Ohio maintained its leadership in this group with a 13 point jump to 273. Hocking Valley the same family jumped 20 points to 525. Union Pacific added six points to last week's 18-point rise and sold above 271 in an active buying movement.

The completion of our line does not necessarily have your minds, as there may remain any inhibition to make some change.

A man doesn't work very long at anything unless he likes it.

Only a few items appearing on Marion markets took an upward trend this morning The advances are not large but may be a signal for a general rise in local prices.

Bananas, formerly selling at four pounds for 25 cents, a price which they have maintained for months were a cent a pound higher this morning selling at four pounds for 29 cents.

Sour cherries formerly selling at 20 cents a quart hit the 25 cent mark Local trees have not yet begun to produce the sour cherries so well known here Southern states are now furnishing the supply.

Otherwise the markets were steady this morning There have been no marked changes in the markets here since a week ago New high levels set by beef prices continued during the week, and from all evidences will prevail this week No new items have been reported

Today's Review of Grain Market
CHICAGO July 15—Impetus was given the bull market in wheat the past week by bullish United States and Canadian government reports as of July 1 and sensational advices of damage sustained by the spring wheat crops of the two countries since the first of the month. Prices were firm preceding the issuance of the report, but suffered a sharp setback Thursday, only to recover the same day. Values soared at the close of the period and Saturday passed levels of the same week a year ago.

Coarse grains were sustained by the bull wheat market, but made only slight advances for the week. Trade was light and outside interest was lacking. While cash conditions were bullish, crop conditions showed great improvement. Rye followed the advance in wheat.

Official World Surplus

Even the more conservative reports indicate that North America this season will produce at least 300,000,000 bushels less wheat than a year ago, this simply offsetting the increased world's surplus. In addition, conditions in Argentina and Australia, the other two large surplus producers, are far from favorable with a marked deficiency of moisture.

Domestic news was sensational enough to delight the most rabid bulls With a bullish Canadian government report indicating conditions on July 1 far below a year ago, from which experts figured a possible crop of 375,000,000 bushel damage since the first has been heavy.

Late in the week the pool issued a report which reduced conditions in the three provinces to 65 per cent of normal which would indicate a crop of around 300,000,000,000 bushels, compared with 510,000,000 bushels a year ago Saturday wires told of further deterioration with weather hot and that rains received early in the week had done little good

Private experts figured the crop in the Dakotas and Minnesota at 140,000,000 bushels compared to the government figure of 179,000,000 for July 1 Most of the deterioration in the domestic spring belt has occurred since the first of the month, it is argued

The strikingly bullish factor in the United States government report was the reduction of 40,000,000 bushels in the winter crop compared with the June 1 estimate and 10,000,000 bushels compared with private figures of July 1 In the southwest too, since the first of the month heavy damage has been reported because of the heavy rains and flood during harvest
